Creator History

Bruce Jay Friedman, a novelist, playwright, short-story writer and Oscar-nominated screenwriter was born in New York City on April 26, 1930. Friedman attended the University of Missouri and earned a B.A. in Journalism in 1951. He spent two years as an Air Force officer during the Korean War and after his service established himself as a writer for men's magazines. Friedman became the executive editor of three major men's magazines Men, Male, and Man's World, before publishing his first novel Stern in 1962. Friedman has been well known for his off-Broadway hit Steambath, and he has since published another seven novels, several short stories, plays and numerous screenplays including Splash in 1984.

Scope and Content Note

The collection heading provides a starting date of 1953, which represents the earliest document located in the archive. The collection documents Friedman's later plays, novels, short stories and is particularly strong in his later works of non-fiction, including many articles and essays. The varied genres of Friedman's writing are represented in the archive as well as incoming and outgoing correspondence, interviews, teaching materials, contracts, permissions, royalty statements, photographs, printed material and some multi-media.
