

Surveys of materials by or relating to prominent individuals

I-L

Surveys list all of the materials (which we happen to have located) by or relating to a specific individual throughout the Division's collections. Surveys have been compiled in a variety of formats and to different levels of detail. At minimum a survey provides the names of the collections containing correspondence or other material by or about an individual.

Surveys are not guides to complete collections of an individual's papers. The materials listed are, in most cases, not filed or shelved together, but are scattered throughout the Division's collections.

The surveys are not comprehensive: they are meant to serve as a time-saving device. Researchers are encouraged to check the guides to other collections that may prove fruitful for their research as the survey files have not been rigorously updated in recent years; researchers are also encouraged to ask Division staff, in person or via mssref@nypl.org, for reference assistance.

To request material listed in a survey it will usually be necessary to consult the guides to the collections listed in order to identify the box number or volumes that contain the material by or relating to the subject of the survey. Some finding aids are available on the Division's website, but many are only available in paper format in the division's reading room. Division staff will be able to assist readers translate the information in a survey into a request for material.

In many cases the surveys were compiled in order to complete a microfilm order of all the material by or relating to an individual. In these cases copies of the microfilm (or paper copies made from film) can be ordered.

NELLA LARSEN (1891-1964)

Nella Larsen, (1891-1964) Harlem Renaissance writer was born Nellie Walker, May 10, 1891 in Chicago, Illinois. Larsen was the daughter of Mary Hanson of Danish descent and Peter Walker (?) of African-American, or African West Indian descent. Larsen eventually became known for the name Nella Larsen or Nella Larsen Imes.¹ Early in her life, Larsen trained as a nurse in New York at the Lincoln Hospital and Home Training School for Nurses (1912-1915). Many years later, Larsen returned to nursing after she ended her career over a charge of plagiarism. Before Larsen made to the transformation into a prominent writer during the Harlem Renaissance, she trained and received a certificate as a librarian (1923) at the library school of the New York Public Library, Fifth Avenue and Forty-Second Street. During this period Larsen's first published essay appeared, a review of Kathleen Norris novel Certain People of Importance (1922). After several years of minor writings, 1928 is the year that marks the emerging prominence of Larsen, with the publication of her first novel Quicksand by the MacMillan Publishing Company. In brief, during the span of years that Larsen focused her career as a novelist, other works and achievements followed including the Harmon Award in Literature (Bronze Award, 1928), Review of Black Sadie by T. Bowyer Campbell (1929), Passing (1929), and the Guggenheim Grant in 1930. Some contemporary writers have expressed that her works are somewhat autobiographical in nature focusing on the difficulty she had with her family over her mixed race background and their acceptance of her. Returning to the topic of plagiarism, Larsen was accused with the publication of her work Sanctuary in Forum Magazine, January 1930. Many believed that Larsen's work was lifted from a story by Sheila Kaye-Smith. A charge that Larsen denied. Escaping to Europe during late 1930 through 1932, Larsen had to confront within herself, the swirling rumors of plagiarism and the failure of her marriage. In brief, Larsen did not resume her career as a writer after her return from Europe for a myriad of reasons. During the 1940's Larsen went back to nursing, a position she held until her death in late March 1964. She was survived by a half sister Anna Larsen Gardner in California.

Jack London Survey in MacMillan Letterbooks

The following survey lists the volume and page numbers for letters to Jack London and his wife Mrs. Bessie London from George Brett and other representatives of the MacMillan Company found in the Letterbooks of the MacMillan Company dated from 1899 and up to and including 1907. The information was gleaned from the indexes which preface the letterbooks. The exactitude of the indexes themselves were only spot checked. Further checking did not seem warranted.

The survey covers a total of 40 volumes in which Jack London or Mrs. London letters appeared on the index. The total number of letters is approximately 250; about 50 of these are letters to Mrs. London.
