Creator History

Actress Annie Russell (1864-1936) was born in Liverpool, England, but emigrated to Canada with her family at a young age. Prompted by her family's financial need, Russell made her first stage appearance at the age of eight, in Montreal. After being brought to New York, she joined a juvenile opera company and made her first appearance there, at the age of fourteen. Russell then toured the West Indies and South America with the same company.

Russell withdrew from the stage because of illness in the late eighteen eighties but returned in 1894. She became the first woman star under the management of Charles Frohman in 1896. Her first appearance in England was at the Garrick Theater, London, in 1898.

Russell retired in 1918 and did not appear on stage again until 1932, when the Annie Russell Theater, established by her friend Mary Louise Curtis (Mrs. Edward W.) Bok, was opened at Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida. She became Artistic Director of the theater and Professor of Theater Arts at the college. When the theater was opened Russell played in In A Balcony. She appeared later that year in an old role of hers, Madame La Grange, in The Thirteenth Chair and her final stage appearance was in March 1935, as Mrs. Malaprop in The Rivals.

In 1932 Rollins College conferred on her the degree of Doctor of Humanities.

Annie Russell was twice married and divorced. She had no children.

Scope and Content Note

The papers of this noted actress consist chiefly of incoming correspondence, 1874-1940. Most of the letters are from prominent theater and literary figures relating to their or her work on stage and her work at Rollins College. There is much personal correspondence from family and friends, especially from popular novelist Faith Baldwin, a long time friend of Russell's. Among the letters those from George Bernard Shaw concerning a production of Major Barbara in 1906. Correspondence dated after Russell's death are letters of sympathy to her sister, Mrs. John J. Carty and letters to Dorothy Lockhart relating to the Annie Russell Theater. There are also fan letters and a group of celebrity autographs collected by Russell.

The remainder of the collection consists of writings by Russell, poems by her and others; a pocket diary kept during a coast to coast road tour, 1907; fragmentary diary, 1920-1925; a pocket diary, 1930; two pocket notebooks of road tour statistics, 1898-1900 and 1901-1904; an address book; papers relating to her marriage to and divorce from Oswald Yorke, 1904-1929 and the sale of her St. Petersburg, Florida home, 1923-1934.
