

The New York Public Library
Manuscripts and Archives Division

Guide to the

Diary of a Confederate Soldier

1864-1865

MssCol 4828

Summary

Title: Diary of a Confederate Soldier

Date: 1864-1865

Size: .08 linear feet (1 vol.)

Source: Gift, Gettleman, Marvin, E, 03/16/1994

Abstract: Diary of an anonymous Confederate soldier written from August 1864 through August 1865. Meticulously dated and written with fine penmanship, the diary recounts a year in the life of a soldier. It begins near Petersburg, Virginia and concludes near Harrisonberg(?). The diary records first-hand narrative accounts of day-to-day activities and includes observations on battles, illnesses, orders from generals and weather conditions, the reelection of Abraham Lincoln to the presidency, and Lee's surrender at Appomatox.

Preferred citation: Diary of a Confederate Soldier, Manuscripts and Archives Division, The New York Public Library

Scope and Content Note

Diary of an anonymous Confederate soldier written from August 1864 through August 1865. Meticulously dated and written with fine penmanship, the diary recounts a year in the life of a soldier. It begins near Petersburg, Virginia and concludes near Harrisonberg(?). The diary records first-hand narrative accounts of day-to-day activities and includes observations on battles, illnesses, orders from generals and weather conditions, the reelection of Abraham Lincoln to the presidency, and Lee's surrender at Appomatox.