Abstract: Henry Grimes (1935-2020) was an American jazz double bassist. A versatile and innovative player, Grimes performed with some of the leading jazz performers of the 1950s and 1960s including Sonny Rollins, Thelonious Monk, Cecil Taylor, and more. After withdrawing from the music world, Grimes lived an ascetic life in Los Angeles for 30 years. He emerged in 2002, reestablishing his legacy as an important jazz figure. The Henry Grimes papers documents his life as a performer through recordings from across his career and details his life away from music through the many notebooks kept during his years in Los Angeles.

Creator History

Henry Grimes was a double bassist and leading innovator of the 1960s free jazz movement. Born in Philadelphia in 1935, Grimes began playing the violin at age 12 before switching to the double bass. After graduating from Mastbaum Technical High School, Grimes began attending Juilliard in 1952, studying under Frederick Zimmerman of the New York Philharmonic. He quickly developed a reputation as a versatile and innovative player and began working with artists such as Anita O'Day, Gerry Mulligan, Lee Konitz, Lennie Tristano, and Billy Taylor.

At the 1958 Newport Jazz Festival, Grimes stood out, performing six sets over the course of the weekend. Appearing with Benny Goodman, Gerry Mulligan, Tony Scott, Lee Konitz, Sonny Rollins, and Thelonious Monk, Grimes impressed the jazz world despite not being listed in the festival program. Grimes is seen briefly in Bert Stern's documentary of the weekend, Jazz on a Summer's Day, performing with the Thelonious Monk Trio. Immediately following the festival, Grimes' first creative period with Sonny Rollins began with the recording of Sonny Rollins and the Big Brass. This was followed by the Sonny Rollins Trio 1959 tour of Europe. Joined by drummers Kenny Clarke and Pete La Roca, the Sonny Rollins Trio reimaged what a trio could sound like, pushing the sound of jazz in a new direction.

As Grimes' profile in the jazz community grew, he moved further towards the free and avant-garde, appearing on landmark recordings with Cecil Taylor (Unit Structures, Conquistador!), Don Cherry (Complete Communion, Symphony for Improvisers, Where is Brooklyn?), Pharoah Sanders (Tauhid), McCoy Tyner (Reaching Fourth), Albert Ayler (Spirits, Swing Low Sweet Spirituals, Spirits Rejoice), and continued work with Sonny Rollins (Sonny Meets Hawk!). In 1965 he released The Call as a trio leader on ESP-Disk. Joined by Perry Robinson on clarinet and Tom Price on drums, The Call was, at the time, Grimes' lone recording date to feature his own compositions.

Despite his profile and regard in the jazz community, paying jobs became harder to come by. In 1967, Grimes took a job touring with Jon Hendricks' band from New York to San Francisco, planning to relocate to the West Coast in hopes of better opportunity. However, while driving through the desert, his bass, strapped to the roof of a car and lacking a travel case, was damaged. After reaching San Francisco and performing with Hendricks, Grimes stayed in the Bay Area playing dates with Al Jarreau and doing a short tour with Sunny Murray's group which included Pharoah Sanders and Amiri Baraka.

By 1968, Grimes had settled in Los Angeles, however work continued to be hard to find. With little money and few connections in Los Angeles, Grimes sold his bass, hoping to gather enough funds to eventually buy back and repair his instrument. Instead Grimes fell out of the music world, began working odd jobs, and living in single room occupancy housing in downtown Los Angeles, refocusing his creative energy towards writing poetry and exploring his spirituality.

After three decades outside the music world, during which many assumed his death, Grimes reemerged in 2002 when Marshall Marrotte, a social worker and jazz fan, used his resources to track down the lost bassist. Grimes expressed an interest in returning to performing and word got out that he was in need of an instrument. The bassist William Parker donated one of his doubles basses, nicknamed Olive Oil for its green color, to Grimes who immediately started practicing and soon began to make live appearances in Los Angeles. In May of 2003 Grimes returned to New York for the first time since 1967, appearing at the annual Vision Festival. Soon afterwards he relocated back to New York and began living with Margaret Davis who became his manager. Davis and Grimes married in 2007.

Over the last 16 years of his life Grimes performed hundreds of shows, conducted workshops and seminars, and played with the likes of Marc Ribot, Marshall Allen, Rashied Ali, Andrew Cyrille, Bill Dixon, and more. At the 2016 Vision Festival, Henry Grimes was awarded a Lifetime Achievement award.

Henry Grimes retired from performing in 2018 due to Parkinson's disease. He died on April 15, 2020 due to complications from Parkinson's and COVID-19.

Scope and Content Note

The Henry Grimes papers traces Grimes' life and creative output. Much of the material centers around his years living and writing in Los Angeles from the 1970s to 2002 and his reemergence as a musical performer in the 2000s.

The collection is separated into the following groups: Notebooks and Writings; Papers, Correspondence, Press; Recorded Sound and Video; Visual Material; and Photographs.

Notebooks and Writings include 76 notebooks, notepads, and binders from Grimes' time living in Los Angeles. After moving to the West Coast in 1967, Grimes settled into an ascetic life in downtown Los Angeles. Writing in his spare time, Grimes accumulated a number of notebooks, notepads, and binders over a 30 year period. The writing ranges from poetry to prose to Bible study and spiritual exploration; some notebooks are written as diary entries mixed with textual analysis while others are more freeform.

In addition to the notebooks, included in this group are typed pages of poetry from the early 2000s. Selections from across these notebooks were compiled in Grimes' book of poetry, Signs Along the Road, published in 2008. Also included is a musical notation notebook from the 1960s that includes notation and writing on some of Grimes' musical pieces.

Papers, Correspondence, Press includes material detailing Grimes' personal and professional life. Items include a pocket bible from Grimes' time in Los Angeles, a certificate commemorating Grimes' graduation from a Bible study course, copies of press release biographies, a detailed live performance itinerary from 2003 to 2018, email correspondence Margaret Davis-Grimes conducted with record labels regarding the release of Grimes' music, press clippings, and postcards and programs from events honoring Grimes.

Recorded Sound and Video includes over 300 recordings of live performances, studio recordings, alternate mixes and masters, interviews, and seminars. Within the section there are four groupings: Early Recordings 1957-1994, Return to Performing 2003-2016, WKCR Radio Festival 2003, and Video 2005-2014. The bulk of material charts Grimes' reemergence as a performer in the 2000s, including appearances at multiple Vision Festivals, and in performance (both live and in studio) with the likes of Rashied Ali, Marshall Allen, Marilyn Crispell, Andrew Cyrille, Bennie Maupin, David Murray, Marc Ribot, Perry Robinson, Cecil Taylor, Wadada Leo Smith, and more.

Visual Material details visual artwork produced by or about Henry Grimes. Included in this series are nine concert posters from performances between 2004 and 2012; 16 pieces of original artwork produced by Grimes; an oil portrait of Henry Grimes painted by Denis Castellás in 2010; and a screenprinted t-shirt from the 2011 Vision Festival, honoring the violinist Billy Bang, showing Bang conducting a performance with a clear image of Grimes performing violin in an ensemble.

Photographs includes publicity shots of Henry Grimes and images from live performances. The majority of photographs are from Grimes' return to performing in 2003, including photographs from one of his early performances at a house in Sherman Oaks, CA. Also of note are portraits with his wife, Margaret Davis-Grimes, a photograph of Grimes and Rashied Ali that would be used on the cover of their album Going to the Ritual, and a variety of live performance photographs. Included is a portrait of Henry Grimes on the streets of Los Angeles in 2000, a glimpse into the physical state of Grimes during his ascetic years.

Within each group material is arranged chronologically.
