

The New York Public Library
Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture,
Manuscripts, Archives and Rare Books Division

Guide to the

James E. Jackson writings

1935-1985

Sc MG 460

Summary

Creator: Jackson, James E., 1914-2007

Title: James E. Jackson writings

Date: 1935-1985

Size: 0.42 linear feet (1 box)

Source: Gift of James Jackson, August 1992.

Revision History: Finding aid updated by Lauren Stark.

Abstract: A former editor of the Daily Worker and member of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party, U.S.A., James E. Jackson was educated at Howard University, Goddard College, and Moscow University. A former trade-union organizer and co-founder of the Southern Negro Youth Congress, he participated as a field researcher in the Carnegie-Myrdal study, "The Negro in America". He was indicted under the Smith Act in the 1950s, and lived for several years as a political refugee, until the reversal of the verdict against him and his co-defendants. He contributed many theoretical articles to the literature of the communist world, especially on issues of labor, the civil rights movement, and the national question as it related to Blacks in the United States. This collection consists of speeches, articles and essays on communism, world politics, and the civil rights movement in the United States, published mainly in Political Affairs, the theoretical organ of the Communist Party, USA. Also included are Jackson's master's thesis, "The Dialectics of National Liberation" (1973), and "Stalin's Thought Illuminates: Problems of the Negro Freedom Struggle", written under the pseudonym of Charles P. Mann. (1953).

Preferred citation: [Item], James E. Jackson writings, Sc MG 460, Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture, Manuscripts, Archives and Rare Books Division, The New York Public Library

Language of the Material: English

Processing note: Accessioned by Andre Elizee, March 1992.

Creator History

A former editor of the Daily Worker and member of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party, U.S.A., James E. Jackson was educated at Howard University, Goddard College, and Moscow University. A former trade-union organizer and co-founder of the Southern Negro Youth Congress, he participated as a field researcher in the Carnegie-Myrdal study, "The Negro in America". He was indicted under the Smith Act in the 1950s, and lived for several years as a political refugee, until the reversal of the verdict against him and his co-defendants. He contributed many theoretical articles to the literature of the communist world, especially on issues of labor, the civil rights movement, and the national question as it related to Blacks in the United States.

Scope and Content Note

This collection consists of speeches, articles and essays on communism, world politics, and the civil rights movement in the United States, published mainly in Political Affairs, the theoretical organ of the Communist Party, USA. Also includes are Jackson's master's thesis, "The Dialectics of National Liberation" (1973), and "Stalin's Thought Illuminates: Problems of the Negro Freedom Struggle", written under the pseudonym of Charles P. Mann. (1953).

Key Terms

Subjects

African American communists
African Americans -- Civil rights
Authors, Black
Communism -- United States
Communists -- United States
Marxist criticism

Names

Jackson, James E., 1914-2007
Communist Party of the United States of America

Container List

- b. 1 "The Dialectics of National Liberation", Master's thesis, Goddard College, Third World Studies Graduate Program 1973
- b. 1 The View from Here: Commentaries on Peace and Freedom, with an introduction by Elizabeth Gurley-Flynn 1963
- b. 1 Revolutionary Tracings in World Politics and Black Liberation 1974
- b. 1 Karl Marx and the United States, pamphlet 1983
- b. 1 Photocopies of speeches, articles, and essays 1935-1985
- b. 1 "Stalin's Thoughts Illuminates: Problems of the Negro Freedom Struggle," written as Charles P. Mann