Creator History

Shirley Herz (1925-2013) was an American press agent for Broadway, Off-Broadway, and regional theater. She also represented actors, dancers, and nightclubs. Herz moved to New York City after attending the University of Pennsylvania for two years and quickly immersed herself in the theater community. In 1953 she met and worked briefly for actress Rosalind Russell. The next year she began her first Broadway job as a press assistant to Dorothy Ross for House of Flowers (1954). Herz publicized several Broadway and Off-Broadway shows as a solo press representative before launching her own firm, Shirley Herz Associates, in 1971. Over the course of her career she represented hundreds of shows and individuals, eventually earning a Tony Honors for Excellence Award in 2009. Among the several Broadway productions she promoted were Miss Isobel (1957); Mary, Mary (1961); Oh! Calcutta! (1969); Strider (1979); and the Tony Award winning La Cage aux Folles (1983). Herz's other clients included the Red Parrot Nightclub and several Off-Broadway theaters such as Ensemble

Studio Theatre, the Jewish Repertory Theatre, the Classic Stage Company, and the Irish Repertory Theatre.

Herz was a longtime board member of the Association of Theatrical Press Agents and Managers (ATPAM) and The Broadway League.

Shirley Herz died in 2013.

Scope and Content Note

The Shirley Herz papers date from 1959 to 1984 and hold production files, client files, correspondence, clippings, and scripts. The collection chiefly documents Herz's work with her agency, Shirley Herz Associates, during the 1980s.

Production files and client files make up the bulk of the collection. Production files typically hold press releases, production photographs, head shots, advertising invoices, proposed production budgets, and newspaper articles. Some production files only contain photographs, such as the file for Strider (1979). Other productions documented in the collection include Baseball Wives (1982), Some Men Need Help (1982), Marilyn: An American Fable (1983), and Perfectly Frank (1983). Press releases, programs, announcements, and reviews for concerts at the Red Parrot Nightclub during the early 1980s are present. Musicians and musical groups documented include Joey Heatherton, the Duke Ellington Orchestra, Julie Budd, the Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra, Jaye P. Morgan, and Lainie Kazan. Researchers should also consult the clippings in the collection, as several productions not represented in the production files are documented through reviews held there.

Client files hold biographical and publicity material gathered by Herz for actors she represented, including Myrna Loy, Dorothy Loudon, Viola Ruben, Valerie Taylor, and Obba Babatundé. The contents of the files vary, though typically they hold press releases, articles, and headshots. Press releases and articles may be for upcoming or past shows. Some files contain memorandums between Herz's office and the actors concerning television or radio interviews.

Correspondence in the collection is limited and dates from 1976 to 1981. It reflects various aspects of publicity, such as program planning, news story proposals, advertising, production hiring, and arranging opening night tickets for critics. Correspondents include Herz and her staff at Shirley Herz Associates, namely Sam Rudy and Peter Cromarty.

Clippings are largely from newspapers outside of New York City. They review Broadway, Off-Broadway, and touring productions such as The Royal Family (1975), Whistler (1981), and Wally's Café (1981).

The scripts in the collection are for five plays: Brassy (1980), Before I Wake (1981), Re/Play (1981), You Ain't Heard Nothin' Yet (1981), and Zoology (1983). They consist of unmarked working and completed copies.

Arrangement: The collection is arranged into the following categories: Correspondence; Clippings; Production Files; Client Files; and Scripts. Correspondence and Clippings are arranged chronologically. All other groups are arranged alphabetically by production or name.
