Creator History

The Main Folk Dance Camp was founded in 1949 by Jane Farwell. The camp, located in Bridgton, Maine, offered summer-long classes in folk dance and music. It was directed for numerous years by Mary Ann and Michael Herman, who also directed the Folk Dance House of New York City.

Scope and Content Note

The materials of the Maine Folk Dance Camp are mainly comprised of the sheet music and dance step instructions for a variety of folk dances (with a few social dances) of different nationalities. It also includes a small number of research papers and bibliography on folk traditions of different countries, such as marriage ceremonies, harvest festivals, etc. The papers were arranged in two series (see organization section).|||The collection provides no background information about the Maine Folk Dance Camp. ## Container List

I. Sheet Music and Dance Step Instructions

In the first series the material is organized alphabetically by country and within countries alphabetically by the titles of the dances. The music and instructions are kept together. The authenticity of some of the dances is questionable, but they are left as identified by the Maine Folk Dance Camp staff.
