Creator History

The United States Sanitary Commission established the Army and Navy Claim Agency (ANCA) in Washington, D.C. on April 1, 1864 to serve as the USSC’s central office to assist Union soldiers, sailors, and their families in prosecuting claims on the federal government for pensions, back pay, bounty, commutation of rations, prize money, and other benefits, without cost. They sought both to protect claimants from agents charging exhorbitant fees and to assist the government by identifying and turning away false claims. To further this goal, they established a system of local claim agencies in many states across the nation. By helping servicemen and their families to obtain monies due to them, the USSC’s claim agencies did much to prevent and alleviate poverty in local communities.

Scope and Content Note

The Army and Navy Claim Agency Archives comprise the records of the Army and Navy Claim Agency; the records of the Pension Agency, its predecessor organization; the registers and cash books of its subsidiary local agencies; and the records of two quasi-independent USSC claim agencies whose origins predate the establishment of the Army and Navy Claim Agency: the Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York, located in New York City, and the Protective War Claim and Pension Agency, located in Philadelphia.

With some variation, a claim agency’s records consist of correspondence with claimants (servicemen and the family members of deceased servicemen), federal and state government departments, military and medical officials, USSC staff and others, regarding claim applications and supporting evidence; registers used to formally record claimant applications submitted to the government, with subsequent actions taken; files containing documentation such as letters, form letter advisements, and supporting evidence (e.g., sworn statements as to military service, marriage certificates, etc.) for individual claim applications; and other claim documentation such as receipts from claimants for government certificates and checks for allowed claims.

Also present are administrative record books documenting expenses and claim work accomplished on a monthly basis for USSC reporting purposes; records of medical examinations as required for invalid pension applications; and official military documents such as discharge papers returned to the agencies by the government for forwarding to claimants, but which were undeliverable.

ANCA’s creation and administration of a large network of local claim agencies are documented in letters and reports received from local agents, letters sent to them by ANCA, and legal agreements. The work of local agents in their communities is reflected in their claim registers and cash books.

The activities of USSC claim agencies in northern urban areas are well represented in the records of the Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York in New York City and the Protective War Claim and Pension Agency in Philadelphia, as seen in the minutes of their executive committees and their correspondence, providing additional materials for the study of USSC operations in one locale. Special relief activities conducted by the Philadelphia agency are documented in the records of their Bureau of Employment for Disabled and Discharged Soldiers and Sailors.

Historical note

The United States Sanitary Commission established the Army and Navy Claim Agency (ANCA) in Washington, D.C. on April 1, 1864 to serve as the USSC's central office to assist Union soldiers, sailors, and their families in prosecuting claims on the federal government for pensions, back pay, bounty, commutation of rations, prize money, and other benefits, without cost. They sought both to protect claimants from agents charging exorbitant fees and to assist the government by identifying and turning away false claims. To further this goal, they established a system of local claim agencies in many states across the nation. By helping servicemen and their families to obtain monies due to them, the USSC's claim agencies did much to prevent and alleviate poverty in local communities.

Its existence dates to the opening of the USSC's Pension Agency, established in Washington on February 10, 1863 by the Special Relief Department to serve the pension needs of invalid soldiers and the relatives of deceased soldiers who were located in Washington. The Pension Agency was incorporated into ANCA in July, 1865, and a local agency was established to serve Washington DC needs. In the summer of 1864 ANCA established a network of local agencies in many states to provide more convenient access to its services. At that time, some independent claim agencies, such as the Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York, located in New York City, and the Protective War Claim Agency of Philadelphia (later the Protective War Claim and Pension Agency), became affiliated with ANCA. At some USSC relief stations and agencies, early claim work handled by relief agents was turned over to ANCA local agents.

After the war, as the USSC evaluated the scope of its future operations, and foreseeing a large expansion of claim work, it decided to cease accepting new claim applications after December 31, 1865. Most local agencies ceased operations at that time. Its Washington agency was reincorporated into ANCA, while the agencies in New York and Philadelphia continued their operations. ANCA and USSC staff continued processing existing claims through the spring of 1867, and made arrangements with former staff members William F. Bascom and Charles W. Seaton to bring the prosecution of most applications to their conclusion on a commission basis, without charge to the claimants. The bulk of ANCA’s records were shipped to New York in 1869; work by USSC staff on a small number of inquiries extended to about 1871.

ANCA worked closely with the nearby Special Relief Department, which assisted soldiers, sailors and veterans in filing various back pay and bounty claims, throughout the war. (The majority of the USSC’s claim work concerned soldiers.) In November, 1865, ANCA took over the filing of all new back pay and bounty claims, while the Special Relief Department concluded work on existing claims, turning over that work to ANCA in late January, 1866. At that time, they transferred back pay and bounty registers and certain other records to ANCA. The Special Relief back pay and bounty claim registers have not been found in the collection.

The creation of ANCA represented the culmination of efforts by Frederick Knapp, the USSC’s Superintendent of Special Relief, to establish a central USSC office to guide soldiers, sailors and veterans through the process of obtaining money due to them as a result of their service in the U.S. military. Sanitary Commission agents in hospitals and USSC homes and lodges assisted soldiers and sailors in making out claim applications on an ad hoc basis in the first months of the war. In 1862, the USSC’s Special Relief Department (also known as the Special Relief Service) opened a small house at 210 F Street, Washington, DC, close to the Paymaster General’s new office. Under the direction of Knapp’s Chief Assistant Joseph B. Abbott, agents at the home helped soldiers too weak or enfeebled to present their own claims for back pay and bounty. Several USSC branches in Northern cities set up their own claims offices to provide claim assistance locally for returning soldiers and their families. The USSC’s Western Department established a pension agency in Louisville in the spring of 1863.
On February 10, 1863, the Special Relief Department opened a new soldier's lodge at 389 H Street in Washington, near the relocated Paymaster General's office, that also included the office of the USSC's new Pension Agency. William F. Bascom, a former District Attorney from Middlebury, Vermont, was engaged to head the office, which helped veterans to secure invalid pensions, primarily at first for discharged or furloughed soldiers and sailors who were staying in Washington until they could arrange travel home or to a next post. Bascom worked under Abbott's aegis, who continued to coordinate the prosecution of back pay and bounty claims for living soldiers.

Milton P. Barry replaced Bascom as Pension Agent on April 14, 1864, when Bascom returned to Vermont on family business. After the establishment of the Army and Navy Claim Agency in April 1864, ANCA often referred to the Pension Agency as its "local agency" in Washington and listed it as such in directories to local USSC claim agents. On July 10, 1865, the claims work of the Pension Agency was officially transferred to ANCA's central office in Washington, at 244 F Street. Barry then became ANCA's local agent in Washington, DC, taking applications from service members and relatives of the deceased located in the area.

The Army and Navy Claim Agency opened for business in April 1864, with Darius Forbes as its General Agent. Forbes, a Universalist minister and journalist, had previously served as Examiner-in-Chief at the U.S. Pension Bureau. Augustus Forbes, Darius' son, served as chief clerk during his father's tenure.

The different types of claims were administered by various federal government offices. ANCA clerks and agents had to correspond with each one separately, often making the application process a lengthy one, due to the large number of claims handled by the government. The Pension Bureau, part of the U.S. Department of the Interior, dealt with pensions for invalid soldiers and sailors, as well as the widows, minor children, and other dependents of the deceased. The Treasury Department's Second Auditor handled claims for back pay and bounty for the family members of deceased soldiers; its Fourth Auditor handled claims for prize money and other benefits for sailors and their surviving family members. The Army's Paymaster General's office handled claims for back pay and bounty for living soldiers and veterans; correspondence with that office was often necessary for Second Auditor claims as well. ANCA also pursued a smaller number of claims through the Treasury's Third Auditor and the Army's Commissary General of Prisoners.

With the organization of ANCA, the USSC sought to bring existing USSC or USSC-related claim offices under one organizational structure, although several offices, particularly those in the West, maintained some independence. In its efforts to expand its services, ANCA hired former Pension Agency manager William F. Bascom as Superintendent of Local Agencies in May, 1865. Local agents were responsible for taking applications from claimants, organizing required evidence, forwarding the necessary paperwork to ANCA's central office (from which they were sent to the government departments), and serving as liaison between local claimants and the central office. They maintained claim registers and reported claims and office expenses to ANCA on a monthly basis.

Forbes was compelled to resign as General Agent in September 1865, and Bascom succeeded him in October, serving until the close of the agency in April 1867. Former New Orleans local agent Charles W. Seaton joined ANCA's Washington office as chief clerk in December 1865, a position he retained (with the exception of a brief stint in November-December 1866 as acting secretary for the Protective War Claim Association of New York) until ANCA's closing in April 1867. With the consolidation of the USSC's Washington premises and staff in 1865-1866, former Department of the Gulf superintendent George A. Blake served as cashier for both the Central Office and ANCA during that time.

Scope and content note
The Army and Navy Claim Agency’s claim prosecution activities, office administration, and the work of its local agencies are documented in correspondence, claim registers, claim files, registers and receipts for remittances to claimants, and general office records, 1864-1870. ANCA’s incoming and outgoing correspondence with claimants, federal and state government departments, USSC staff, ANCA’s local agents and others concern the filing and status of claims, and to a lesser extent, administrative matters. Also present are letters sent and received at the Cashier’s Desk, and incomplete registers of ANCA’s letters received. Claim registers provide a comprehensive record of claim applications submitted by ANCA or by ANCA on behalf of it local agents; these include registers of new applications beginning in the fall of 1865 for types of claims previously handled by the USSC’s Special Relief Department. Local agents’ own record books are found in Series III. Local agent registers and cash books. Claim files comprise the bulk of the series, documenting over 30,000 individual applications for claims against the government, filed by ANCA on behalf of servicemen or the relatives of deceased servicemen. Files typically consist of the original file jacket noting the name of the serviceman and, if deceased, related claimant, noting actions taken, and any correspondence or evidentiary documents contained within. Remittance records consist of registers, receipt files and partial name index volumes, documenting ANCA’s receipt and forwarding of government funds and other items to claimants or their agents. Receipt files consist of signed forms or letters from claimants or agents acknowledging same.

General Office records document ANCA’s tracking of the number and type of claims filed on a regular basis, and cash value of claims allowed, as well as the administration of its local agencies, represented by legal agreements, records of their monthly transactions, and indexes listing agencies by place and name. Also present are a list of Confederate ships captured as prizes by the U.S. Navy, a record of office mailings, sample ANCA forms, and miscellaneous items.
A. Correspondence 1864-1868

The arrangement of ANCA's correspondence reflects the named categories of correspondents as maintained by ANCA in its records: Miscellaneous, government departments (federal and state), and United States Sanitary Commission. Correspondence with local agents and correspondence of ANCA's cashier's desk are also present. Letters concern claim applications and, to a lesser extent, administrative matters.

Miscellaneous correspondence contains both claim-related incoming correspondence and administrative correspondence. Correspondents include soldiers and other claimants, military officers, physicians, and others providing evidence for claims, as well as ANCA local agents and other ANCA and USSC personnel.

United States Sanitary Commission correspondence is primarily with the Special Relief Department in Washington, D.C., although administrative correspondence with executive officers such as John S. Blatchford can also be found in Miscellaneous correspondence.

Letters received are arranged alphabetically by the first letter of the claimant's surname (regardless of the author), or in the case of administrative letters, the first initial of the correspondent's surname, unless stated otherwise.

Letterpress copybooks containing copies of letters sent are grouped by category of correspondent, and are in chronological order within.

Due to the large amount of correspondence generated in the processing of claims, USSC agencies and government departments and agencies at the federal and state level frequently communicated by form letter in addition to the use of longer, explanatory letters regarding a particular case. Communications may acknowledge the receipt of an application, assign a claim number, request further evidence in a case, or inform the recipient of the outcome of an application, and the payment amount (pension rate or payments for back pay, bounty and other reimbursements) in cases where claims are allowed. The types of claim handled by government departments and agencies are identified below. Not all departments are represented in the correspondence of all claim agencies.

Federal Government:

Department of the Interior. Pension Office: Letters concern claims for pensions by invalid soldiers and sailors, and by the widows, minor children, dependent mothers, and orphan sisters under 16 years of age, of deceased servicemen.

Department of the Treasury. Office of the Second Auditor: Letters concern claims by family members of deceased soldiers for the arrears of pay and bounty due to the deceased. Documents chiefly acknowledge receipt of a claim application, indicate the need for further evidence in a claim, or inform the recipient of the outcome of an application, and payment amount in cases where claims are allowed.

Department of the Treasury. Office of the Third Auditor: Letters concern claims by soldiers, sailors, or family members of deceased servicemen for compensation of property lost in service, most often a horse.

Department of the Treasury. Office of the Fourth Auditor: Letters concern claims by sailors or family members of deceased sailors for prize money and other naval claims, such as indemnity. Prize money was paid by the Navy to sailors as a share of the value of an enemy ship and its goods captured during wartime.

Navy Department: Letters concern sailors or family members of deceased sailors. Documents provide recipient with information from department records regarding claim applications.

War Department, Adjutant General: Letters concern claims by soldiers or family members of deceased soldiers for back pay, arrears of pay, or bounty, which were handled by the Second Auditor's Office or the Paymaster General. Documents provide recipients with information from Army muster rolls relevant to claim applications.

War Department, Chief of Ordnance: Letters concern claims by soldiers or family members of deceased soldiers for back pay, arrears of pay, and bounty. Documents provide recipients with information from department records regarding stores of weapons and ammunition.

War Department, Commissary General of Prisoners: Letters concern claims by soldiers who

War Department. Paymaster General: Letters concern claims for back pay and bounty by soldiers. Documents acknowledge receipt of application; indicate the need for further evidence in claim; provide recipients with information from department records regarding muster, pay dates, and monetary allowances; or inform the recipient of the outcome of an application, and payment amount in cases where claims are allowed.

Quartermaster General: Letters concern various claims by soldiers and family members of deceased soldiers. Documents provide recipients with information from department records regarding military supplies and, especially, return of stores for which a soldier held responsibility.

U.S. Military Railroads: Letters concern various claims by soldiers and family members of deceased soldiers. Documents provide recipients with information from department records regarding railroad transportation, of which the government had taken possession during the war.

State governments: Letters concern claims by soldiers and family members of deceased soldiers. Documents chiefly acknowledge transactions in individual claim applications or provide recipient with information regarding regulations and processes governing state bounty claims and the enlistment of soldiers in state regiments.

Cashier's Desk letters received 1865-1867
Letters addressed to cashiers Henry Loomis and George A. Blake, and sometimes to William F. Bascom, from claimants, claim agents and others, mostly acknowledging receipt of payment certificates, checks and discharge papers. The ANCA cashier also handled any necessary USSC expenses in Washington, and requests for office supplies. Letters from Bascom to the cashiers concern claim matters and administrative expenses such as salaries. A few letters from John S. Blatchford and other USSC staff are also present. Letters are arranged in alphabetical order by correspondent surname.

Registers of letters received 1864 Apr-1865 May
An incomplete or unfinished series of registers for ANCA’s numbered correspondence, which amounted to over 100,000 items as seen in the records. Letters received were assigned sequential numbers endorsed with the prefix “A.” Entries include the letter number, name of writer, where written, date written, date received in office, note of contents, action taken, and remarks. Some entries in the first register contain cross-references to letterpress copybooks containing pertinent outgoing letters. A “L.B. … F” column lists the copybook number (e.g. folio or volume 1) and the relevant page number within. Entries for # 1-47,143 are in rough chronological order by date received; however, there are gaps and disorder in the numbering sequence within and across volumes. Date and item number ranges below are for first and last entries in volumes.

   Miscellaneous
   Copies of letters regarding claims prosecution sent to claimants, local agents, providers of evidence in claim applications, USSC personnel, clerks of court, and others, primarily written by Darius Forbes and W.F. Bascom. Augustus Forbes, General Agent Darius
Forbes's son and ANCA chief clerk, drafted some letters between April 1864 and August 1865, and was the sole author in September 1865, when Darius Forbes resigned. During Bascom's term as General Agent, a few letters were written by M.P. Barry as acting chief clerk in October 1865, and many by C.W. Seaton after he became chief clerk in December 1865 through ANCA's closure in April 1867. Between April 1867 and November 1867, many letters were signed by Seaton or as Bascom & Seaton, as the two men took charge of completing the prosecution of remaining open ANCA claims. Some letters have an ANCA claim number in the top right-hand corner. Each volume contains an alphabetical index to claimants and some recipients. ANCA staff assigned volume numbers to some, but not all, volumes in this group.

B. Claim Registers 1864-1868

Registers provide the most comprehensive access to information concerning the processing of a particular claim. The bulk of the claim registers consist of registers created by ANCA from its establishment in the spring of 1864, marking a transition from the activities of its predecessor, the Pension Agency. Registers are distinguished by the type of claim processed: Invalid pensions, widows pensions (including other dependent relatives), naval pensions (invalid sailors and dependent relatives of deceased sailors), and arrears of pay and bounty (claims for back pay and bounty and other benefits due to dependent relatives of deceased soldiers and sailors).

Also present are registers and record books created by ANCA in the fall of 1865 to handle new claim applications for types of claims generally handled by J.B. Abbott's staff at the Special Relief Department in Washington: back pay and bounty claims for living soldiers, disabled or discharged; commutation of ration claims for former prisoners of war, or their relatives if deceased; and various types of naval claims (excluding pensions and arrears of pay and bounty), such as prize money. The Special Relief Department continued to process existing claims in its office until late January, 1866.

Date spans for volumes reflect the bulk of the claim transaction dates within; due to the large amount of data presented, recordkeeping practices, and transactional remarks (particularly those recorded by the USSC in later years), the spans may not be comprehensive. They are provided to establish a general chronological sequence of their creation and use over time for research purposes. While most registers refer to claims for soldiers, claims for those in naval service are sometimes found listed within them, aside from registers devoted strictly to naval claims.

References to volume and page numbers on claim jackets generally refer to these books, which can be identified by type of claim.

Invalid pensions 1864-1866

Record of soldiers’ applications for invalid pensions. Entries are arranged alphabetically by first letter of soldier's surname and are in rough chronological order within by date received in ANCA office. Entries provide soldier name, rank, company, regiment, service (branch), by whom forwarded (claimant or local agent), date of reception (receipt), date of filing (the claim by ANCA), post office address of applicant, pension certificate date of forwarding, rate of pension, and U.S. Pension Office number (the application number; called “department number” on ANCA claim jackets). Remarks include notations about progress of claim applications. The application number assigned to the claim by ANCA's central office (“office number” on ANCA claim jackets) appears in black ink in the far left-hand column of each two-page spread. Below it, in red ink, is the number assigned to the application by the local agent who first handled it.

Medical examinations for invalid pensions 1865

Record of medical examinations required by the U.S. Pension Office for applicants for invalid pensions. Exams were conducted by physician Julius Nichols, who was affiliated with ANCA and appointed by the Pension Office. Entries are arranged chronologically by date of examination and include applicant name, rank, company, and regiment, residence, description of wound or disability, and physician comments on degree of soldier’s entitlement to pension.

Widows' pensions 1864-1867
Record of applications for pensions by widows, as well as by the dependent mothers of deceased soldiers, by guardians on behalf of minor children, and orphan sisters under 16 years of age. Entries are arranged alphabetically by first letter of claimant's surname and are in rough chronological order within by date received in ANCA office. Entries include claimant name, soldier name (below claimant name), rank, company, regiment, service (branch), by whom forwarded (claimant or local agent), date of reception (receipt), date of filing (the claim by ANCA), post office address of applicant, pension certificate date of forwarding, rate of pension, and U.S. Pension Office number (the application number; called “department number” on ANCA claim jackets). Remarks include notations about progress of claim applications. The application number assigned to the claim by ANCA's central office (“office number” on ANCA claim jackets) appears in black ink in the far left-hand column of each two-page spread. Below it, in red ink, is the number assigned to the application by the local agent who first handled it.

Naval pensions 1864 May-1866 Dec
Record of applications for naval pensions by invalid sailors and dependent relatives of deceased sailors. Entries are arranged alphabetically by first letter of claimant's surname and in rough chronological order within. Entries include number (ANCA claim number or “office number” in black ink; number assigned to the application by the local agent who first handled it in red ink below); name of claimant (with name of sailor below if deceased); rank, company, regiment, state, and service (in this volume, rank and ship name appear under these Army-related headings); by whom forwarded (claimant or local agent); date of reception (receipt); date of filing (of claim by ANCA); post office address of applicant; pension certificate date of forwarding; rate of pension; remarks; Pension Office numbering (“department number” on ANCA claim jackets”). Remarks include notations about progress of claim applications.

Arrears of pay and bounty 1864-1867
Record of applications for arrears of pay and bounty, predominantly by relatives of deceased soldiers. Applications by relatives of deceased sailors for claims such as prize money are also present. Entries are arranged alphabetically by first letter of claimant surname and arranged chronologically within by date received. Entries include number, claimant name, soldier name (below claimant name), rank, company, regiment, state, service (branch), or sailor name with ship or other information, by whom forwarded (claimant or local agent), date of reception (receipt), date of filing (the claim by ANCA), post office address of applicant, date of certificate, amount of certificate, and other remarks. The “number” column includes the application number assigned to the claim by ANCA's central office (“office number” on ANCA claim jackets) in black ink and the number assigned to the application by the local agent who first handled it, in red ink. Remarks include notations about progress of claim applications. The first two volumes were originally printed for use with pension claims. Column headings for “Pension Office numbering” and “amount of draft” refer to the Pension Office, but the content actually provides the certificate number and payment amount for arrears of pay and bounty claims, typically handled by the Second Auditor.

Back pay and bounty 1865-1867
Record of soldiers’ applications for back pay and bounty. Volumes also list a small number of claims for arrears of pay and bounty made by relatives of deceased soldiers. Entries are arranged alphabetically by first letter of claimant surname and arranged chronologically within by date entered. Entries identify soldier’s name, rank, regiment, state, service branch, post office address, and name of person forwarding claim to ANCA (generally one of ANCA’s local agents). Entries may also include the date claim was filed, soldier’s discharge date, date check received and amount, and whether the claim was allowed, rejected, declined, abandoned, or referred elsewhere. A large number of back pay and bounty claims were handled by the USSC’s Special Relief Department. Their claim registers were transferred to ANCA in January 1866; however, they are not present in the collection.

Claims are predominantly for reimbursement of expenses and back pay. Entries, in alphabetical order by first letter of officer surname, include officer name, rank, regimental information, address, ANCA office number (in red), transaction dates and remarks. Claimant names other than the officer's are usually not provided.

Entries, in alphabetical order by first letter of soldier surname, provide soldier name and military unit, address, transaction dates and remarks. Claimant names other than the serviceman represented are usually not provided. Also present is a correspondence report for 1866 Apr-Jul.
C. Claim Files 1864-1869

Files document claim applications made by soldiers, sailors, and family members of deceased servicemen for pensions, back pay, bounty, prize money, and other types of claims. Most claim files were created by ANCA, but also included are files originally created by the USSC’s Special Relief Department, the Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York (PWCA), and other local agents, and incorporated into ANCA’s records by its staff. Each file constitutes one claim application for an individual soldier, sailor, or other claimants; files generally consist of a jacket or envelope containing documentation for an individual claim application.

Files consist of documents produced and amassed in the process of applying for claims to the relevant federal government department, and obtaining and submitting evidence supporting the claimant’s entitlement to payment. In addition to claim jackets, documents present in files may include: claim application forms; communications from government and USSC departments; witness statements notarized by local clerks of court; copies of marriage, birth, and baptismal records; letters from claimants, providers of evidence, agents, and others supplying assistance to claimants; and soldiers’ letters to family members offered as proof of circumstances. Jackets and envelopes typically have notes on them regarding the status of claim application written by ANCA staff. Some jackets present have no enclosures; some files contain documents without jackets. Documentation is not necessarily inclusive; additional items concerning individual claims are found throughout Series I. Correspondence.

Most claim jackets are pre-printed ANCA forms, long ends glued together at one side, which wrapped around folded documents to keep them together. Other types of jackets present include: pre-printed jackets from PWCA, similar to the ANCA forms; jackets from other local agents, which are either similar forms pre-printed with local agent names or plain paper wrappers; pre-printed jackets from the USSC’s Special Relief Department; and blank, business-size envelopes used as jackets. Jackets prominently display the name of the soldier or sailor upon whose service a claim was based; those names appear in the container list. Jackets also identify claim types; soldier or sailor’s service information; claimant name, when it differs from soldier or sailor, and address; forwarding information from local agent, including agent name, date claim taken, date forwarded to ANCA, date received by ANCA, and date acknowledged by ANCA; information regarding filing of claim application, including government department claim was filed in, filing date, and date ANCA received acknowledgment of filing; results of application, whether claim was allowed, rejected, or withdrawn, dollar amount of any payment; and reference to relevant entries in ANCA claim registers by volume and page number and to other claim record types.

Jackets identify claims by various numbering schemes. ANCA jackets identify the number assigned to the application by the local agent who originally recorded it (“local agent number”); the claim number initially assigned to the application by ANCA staff (“office number”); and the number assigned to the application by the government department who handled it (“department number”). ANCA staff assigned a new claim number to each file across the series in 1866. These new claim numbers were generally written in blue pencil and placed prominently on the top front of the jacket (or folded document when no jacket was present). The numerical sequence of these new claim numbers generally follows alphabetical order; the alphabetical sequence has been maintained when the numerical sequence deviates from it. Some numbers are missing from this sequence; the sequence includes some fractional numbers; and in some cases, a claim number in blue pencil has been crossed out and replaced by a new number, also in blue pencil. Jackets were also generally stamped by ANCA staff with one or more markings in blue ink in an unidentified status system. The PWGA jackets included in this series were generally not assigned new claim numbers in this sequence, but rather appear as originally arranged, following the ANCA file for the same claim for the same soldier.

Claim files are arranged alphabetically by surname of soldier or sailor upon whose service claim is based. When multiple soldiers and/or sailors share the same name, claim files are arranged as follows: volunteer Army units by state, regiment number, and company; regular Army units by unit type, regiment, and company; sailors by ship; and other service positions without explicit unit or ship information. This information is found on the jacket but is not identified at the container or file folder level.

Handwriting is difficult to read on some jackets. Every effort has been made to transcribe names as close to appearance on jackets as possible. Alternate spellings of names on jackets may appear on other documents in file. For a small number of files, arrangement issues have been resolved as follows. When the name on a jacket has been crossed out and another written in, arrangement follows the name written in. When alternate spellings of a name have been written above the original name without cross-outs, arrangement follows the original name. When an alias is included next to the original soldier or sailor name, arrangement follows the original name; aliases are not included in the container list. When the soldier/sailor's and claimant's names have been transposed on the jacket, arrangement follows the soldier/sailor's name.

Approximately 33,400 files are present.

D. Remittances to claimants 1865-1869

Remittance records consist of three registers listing remittances forwarded to claimants and actions taken, partial name indexes for same, and receipts for remittances, which were signed and returned by claimants or their agents to ANCA. ANCA placed most receipts in individual envelopes with identifying information.

Remittances refer to government payment certificates and official checks from various U.S. paymaster offices for allowed claims, which were forwarded to claimants or their local agents by ANCA. The term also refers to discharge and other official papers which had been submitted as proof to the government, and were returned to ANCA for forwarding. Register entries for volumes A and B provide department number (number assigned to an individual claim application by the applicable government department), register, page, number (application number assigned by ANCA; "office number" on ANCA claim jackets), name of claimant, nature (type) of claim, nature of government issue (certificate or check from applicable government department), amount (of award), to whom remitted (name and post office address), date of remittance, nature of remittance, date of acknowledgment, and remarks.

Entries also serve as cross-references to claim entries in most of the ANCA claim registers. The number in the "Register" column refers to the volume number within a group of claim registers. The "Page" column indicates the page number of the volume with the original application information. The "Nature of Claim" and "Nature of Government Issue" columns indicate in which group of claim registers that volume can be found (e.g., widows’ pensions). Reference is also made to Special Relief Department records. Entries “Ref’d A” and “Ref’d B” correspond to their “Referred books” which are found in Department records in the Washington DC Archives.

Each of these two remittance volumes has a related index volume. Entries are alphabetical by first letter of claimant surname and provide the page number in the respective remittance volume where that claimant’s remittance information may be found.

Register C, which lacks an index, presents a different arrangement of information. The volume was started at the time that the USSC was beginning to close down its claims service, in late 1866-early 1867. William Bascom and Charles Seaton, the ANCA agents primarily responsible for the agency’s claims prosecution during this period, were instructed to make a final arrangement of the claims, during which they assigned to each a new unique claim (office) number (typically marked in blue pencil on claim jackets). Entries in this volume are in numerical order by settlement number, reflecting chronological order by month (no individual entry dates appear) and use of the new ANCA claim numbers, rather than the original office numbers. Entries provide settlement number (a unique number within this volume providing a running total of how many claims were settled), claim number (corresponding to the "blue number" on claim jackets), transmittal number, receipt number, name of soldier (or sailor), cash value (of remittance), and remarks. The cash value field is divided into five claim categories: invalid pension, widows’ pension (including other dependents of deceased soldiers), arrears of pay and bounty, naval pension, and prize money. The totaled monetary value of claims in each category appears at the bottom of each page and at the end of each month’s entries. Page and volume references to original claim registers are not provided.

Remittance receipts 1865-1866

Records consist of envelopes containing signed forms acknowledging receipt of remittances. Each envelope identifies an individual claimant transaction, recording the information found in the registers. Occasionally letters and additional papers are also present. Remittances in envelopes correlate to entries in Registers A and B above, loose receipts span all registers. Remittance receipts are also found in claim files. Register and page numbers noted on jackets refer to the original claim registers for that type of claim where the main entry for that claim can be found; they do not refer to remittance registers. Date of remittance often lists two dates in close proximity; the later date appears in the remittance registers. Many envelopes bear a number, usually in red ink, at the top center. Their purpose has not been determined. Receipt forms varied over time; those dating from the time period of Register C allow for entry of claim, settlement and transmittal numbers. Remittance receipts are in alphabetical order by first initial of claimant or soldier surname.
General office records chiefly reflect the administration of local agencies as documented in legal agreements and relevant documents, a monthly record of their claim transactions and expenses, and indexes to agencies by place and state. Also present are staff reports on claims processing work and mailings, lists of undeliverable certificates and official papers, and receipted lists of those returned to the government, as well as a list of U.S. Navy prizes, an obsolete index of claim files, miscellaneous documents, and sample forms used by ANCA and government departments.

II. Pension Agency 1863-1866 (14 boxes, 1 volume)

The records of the Pension Agency reflect the daily work of claims prosecution conducted by Agency staff from its establishment by the USSC's Special Relief Department in February 1863 to its integration into ANCA in July 1865 (where it was sometimes referred to as the Pension Division). Office staff prosecuted invalid pension claims for disabled soldiers (and a much smaller number of sailors) and, to a lesser extent, applications for pensions for widows, minor children, and other dependent relatives; as well as other types of claims.

Records consist of registers recording applications and actions taken in prosecuting individual claims; a register of medical examinations of applicants for invalid pensions, as required by the Pension Office; daily journals recording claim work and other office activities; registers of letters sent by the Pension Agency to claimants, federal government departments, and others; officers’ certificates solicited as evidence in support of soldiers’ claims; and certificate receipts. Incoming correspondence and letters acknowledging receipt of certificates cover an extended period from 1863 into 1866. Many are addressed to pension agent Milton P. Barry, who, having relinquished his role as ANCA local claim agent for Washington, D.C. at the end of 1865, continued working on pension and other claims at ANCA until his departure for work with the Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York. Letterpress copies of outgoing correspondence of the Pension Agency are not found in the collection.

Letters received 1863-1866
Letters mostly from claimants, but also agents, government departments, USSC staff, officers and others concerning the status of pension and other claims, dating from the opening of the Pension Agency and continuing past its incorporation into ANCA. Letters are mainly addressed to William F. Bascom and later M.P. Barry. Letters are in rough chronological order by month, usually reflecting date written, and are in no particular order within. Pension Office letters, identified as ‘miscellaneous,’ concern the status of individual pension claims.

Registers of letters sent 1863-1865
Chronological record of letters sent, listing recipient name, post office address, and subject matter addressed, further tabulated by the number of pieces mailed under categories of claims or circular forms. The first and last volumes also contain statistical claim reports.

Claim registers 1863-1865
Registers predominantly record claims by soldiers for invalid pensions; claims by relatives of deceased soldiers for arrears of pay and bounty and a small number of claims for widows’ and naval pensions are also found. Entries include U.S. Pension Office application number (for pension cases), soldier name, rank, regimental information, nature and date of disability, and date of filing. Subsequent notations concern correspondence with claimant, Pension Office or other government department, evidence required, acceptance or rejection of claim, and amount paid or reason for rejection. The processing of these claims was continued after 1865 Jul 10 by ANCA. Entries for new applications for this type of claim are found in ANCA’s invalid pension registers and in M.P. Barry’s 1865 local agent register below. Entries are in alphabetical order by first letter of claimant surname and rough chronological order within; as alphabetical sections were filled, entries for that letter continued in the next volume. Pension Office application numbers range roughly in sequence from the 10,000’s to the 70,000’s across the volumes.

III. Local agent registers and cash books 1863-1866 (24 boxes, 2 volumes)

ANCA's local agents served as liaisons between the central office in Washington, DC, and claimants in over 100 towns and cities in 23 states and the District of Columbia. They took claim applications from soldiers, sailors, and their family members in their regions, forwarded the necessary paperwork to ANCA, and maintained communication with claimants and others assisting with the prosecution of individual cases. Most local offices were established during the summer of 1865, but some started as early as 1862. Early offices, such as the Philadelphia’s Protective War Claim and Pension Agency or the Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York, were generally either founded by local USSC affiliates or established independently, coming under the aegis of the USSC as the war progressed. Some claim work initially conducted by USSC relief agents was continued on a local agent basis. Most local agencies closed in the fall of 1865, after ANCA General Agent W.F. Bascom announced that ANCA would cease accepting new claim applications on December 31, 1865. Some had closed earlier, while others worked to close pending applications into early 1866. Local agents turned their records over to ANCA upon closure of their offices.

Records consist of registers and cash books maintained by local agents as a record of their claims prosecution and operating expenses, as mandated by ANCA. Registers typically identify the name, rank, and regiment or ship information for the soldier or sailor making the claim, or upon whose service the claim was based; name and relationship of the individual family member making application; address; date and circumstances of discharge, disability, or death; claim type; application date; evidence required and when it was received or sent; dates of communication with ANCA; whether a claim was settled, rejected, or required further action; and any claim settlement in dollar amounts. The amount of information recorded varies. Entries in registers (most of which were supplied by ANCA) are arranged alphabetically by the first letter of the soldier or sailor surname and chronologically within each section; exceptions are noted at the item level. Expenses incurred in the prosecution of claims, such as magistrate’s fees, postage, and rent, were recorded either in the registers or in separate cash books. Local agents' correspondence with ANCA, monthly reports to ANCA, and employment agreements with ANCA are found in that sub-group.

Further information about local agents, with a regional listing, can be found in John S. Blatchford’s “Statement concerning the Army and Navy Claim Agency of the U.S. Sanitary Commission, From September 1, 1864, to October 1, 1866.” [Washington: The Commission, 1866].

IV. Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York 1861-1867 (75 boxes, 14 volumes)

Historical note

The Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York (PWCA) was established as an independent organization in New York City on January 19, 1863. Its mission was four-fold: to secure claims for soldiers, sailors, and their families without charge; to protect claimants from fraudulent agents; to prevent false claims from being made; and to offer advice and information to soldiers, sailors, and their families without charge. The Association became officially affiliated with the USSC’s Army and Navy Claim Agency (ANCA) in June, 1864, making a final transfer of its claim operations and records to ANCA in late 1866. The Association also established a Bureau of Employment for Disabled and Discharged Soldiers which functioned from late 1864 to early 1866.

Prominent businessmen and philanthropists Howard Potter, William E. Dodge, Jr., and Theodore Roosevelt, Sr. served on the Executive Committee and were the Association’s driving force; Potter chaired the committee and Robert B. Minturn served as the Association’s treasurer. Notable members of the Association’s board of directors included James W. Beekman, John Jacob Astor, Peter Cooper, George Bancroft, and USSC president Henry W. Bellows.

The Association hired attorney Henry Greenfield as its agent and secretary and opened offices at 35 Chambers Street, in lower Manhattan, on March 16, 1863. Handbill, circulars, and cards to advertise the new office were distributed to local and regional papers, as well as to hospitals, camps, and barracks serving soldiers across New York State. In addition to Greenfield, PWCA hired a small staff of clerks to process incoming claim applications. Greenfield and his staff corresponded directly with federal government departments to prosecute claims for pensions, bounty, back pay, arrears of pay, and prize money on behalf of soldiers, sailors, widows, minor children, dependent mothers, and other family members of the deceased. The Association established a Trust Fund to make cash advances on pending claims to assist veterans and their relatives in immediate need of money.

In April 1864, the Association’s Executive Committee wrote to the USSC’s Standing Committee to propose bringing PWCA under the aegis of the Sanitary Commission. The Standing Committee agreed, making its first appropriation of $200 to the Association for its monthly expenses in June, 1864. Thereafter, the Association received claim petitions from soldiers, sailors and their family members in their New York City office and forwarded them to ANCA in Washington, which handled interactions with the responsible federal government departments.

In late 1864, the Association expanded the scope of its work by establishing a Bureau of Employment for Disabled and Discharged Soldiers and Sailors. The Bureau subsequently created a Soldiers Messenger Corps, which employed as couriers veterans who had suffered a permanent disability in the war, such as the loss of an arm or a leg.

After the war’s end in April 1865, the USSC began to consolidate and wrap up its activities. In November 1865, ANCA announced that it would no longer accept new claim applications after December 31, 1865, and directed its local agents to close their offices and forward their records to Washington. PWCA, along with a handful of other major local agencies, continued to prosecute claims into 1866. It prosecuted claims directly with federal government departments for the first two months of 1866. In March 1866, the Association returned to working through ANCA. PWCA clerk Gilbert S. King (early March 1866) and, following, George B. Randlette (1866 Mar–Nov) served as PWCA’s “special agent” in ANCA’s central office, coordinating the prosecution of remaining New York claims, for which both ANCA and PWCA maintained records. Randlette had previously worked as an assistant in the USSC’s Special Relief Department office in Washington. King returned to New York later in March to serve as the Association’s secretary following Greenfield’s departure, remaining through November 1866. In May 1866, the Association relocated its offices from Chambers Street to 823 Broadway, formerly housing the USSC’s New York Office.
On November 11, 1866, direct charge of the Association was transferred from its Executive Committee directly to ANCA. ANCA agents Charles W. Seaton (through December 15, 1866) and Milton P. Barry (through April 1867) served as acting secretaries as the Association wrapped up its final business. Sometime in the following months, the Association’s records, including those for all unsettled claims, were transferred to ANCA in Washington, where General Agents William F. Bascom and Seaton worked to complete unresolved claim prosecutions; they closed several PWCA claims as late as March 1869. Bascom and Seaton deposited the Association’s records, along with ANCA’s, with the USSC’s Historical Bureau in 1869.

According to ANCA’s “Statement Concerning the Army and Navy Claim Agency of the U.S. Sanitary Commission, From September 1, 1861 to October 1, 1866” which includes a “condensed exhibit” of the Association’s work through November 1, 1866, the Association filed over 10,000 claim applications during its operations. Of these, about 7,000 were allowed, the majority for invalid veterans and the widows of deceased soldiers.

Scope and content note

Records of the Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York (PWCA), 1861-1867, document the services it provided to soldiers, sailors and their families living in New York, especially the New York City area, as an independent claim agency and later as a USSC affiliate, under the direction of prominent New York City businessmen and philanthropists. Services are primarily the filing and prosecuting of service-related claims with the government on behalf of the public, free of charge, and its operation of a bureau of employment for disabled and discharged servicemen. The Association also responded to requests for information and other assistance.

Records consist of incoming and outgoing correspondence with claimants, federal and other government departments and agencies regarding claims, and with the U.S. Sanitary Commission concerning claims and administrative matters; also, correspondence kept by its agent George B. Randlette at the Army and Navy Claim Agency (ANCA), and the claim correspondence of employee E.P. Brook dating from a previous government position. The bulk of the records comprise claim registers, over 2,000 files documenting individual applications; and documentation supporting the processing of claim applications, such as affidavits, interoffice briefs, receipts and vouchers, office claim reports, and an address book for officers of New York State regiments.

Also present are records documenting the work of the Association’s Bureau of Employment for Disabled and Discharged Soldiers and Sailors. these consist of correspondence with soldiers, sailors, businessmen and others; registers listing unemployed men, most disabled, and businessmen offering employment; and documents relating to its Soldier Messenger Corps. These materials provide great insight into the condition, situation and skills of individual discharged soldiers and sailors hoping for employment, and the efforts of others to provide means of support for them. A small amount of Executive Board records, including minutes, shed light on the operations of the Association, particularly the Bureau of Employment.

Additional claim files created by the Protective War Claim Association and handled by the Army and Navy Claim Agency can be found in the claim files of that sub-group. Those files generally follow the related ANCA file for the same soldier or sailor.

The Association’s financial records are located in the Accounts and Vouchers record group.
A. Correspondence 1861-1867

Correspondence consists of PWCA’s incoming and outgoing correspondence regarding the prosecution of claims and USSC administrative matters, and letters sent and received by its agent George P. Randlette while at ANCA in Washington. Also present is the claim-related correspondence of E.P. Brook, dating prior to his employment with PWCA.

Letters received are from the following categories of correspondents as arranged and identified by staff: Miscellaneous, Government Departments, and the United States Sanitary Commission.

Miscellaneous correspondents include claimants, military officers, surgeons, PWCA Executive Board members, as well as staff from various USSC departments and branches. Government Departments comprise letters from the U.S. departments most frequently in contact with PWCA concerning claim applications: the Department of the Interior’s Pension Office and the Second and Fourth Auditors of the Treasury Department. Letters from other government departments can be found in Miscellaneous correspondence. For a description of materials typically found for particular government departments see ANCA correspondence. Sanitary Commission letters from J.B. Abbott of the Special Relief Department, Darius Forbes and W.F. Bascom of ANCA, and George B. Randlette, PWCA’s agent at ANCA in Washington, also include some discussion of office procedures. Randlette’s own incoming and outgoing correspondence at Washington is arranged separately. Within each series of correspondents, letters are arranged chronologically by month, and roughly by date written within. Date order may be ascending or descending.

Copies of outgoing letters sent by the secretary or assistant secretary regarding claims prosecution. Most recipients are claimants, military officers, surgeons, and government departments; some USSC staff are included as well. Each volume except the last contains an index to recipients.

E.P. Brook correspondence 1861-1865

Brook’s claim-related correspondence in his capacity as a clerk in the U.S. District Attorney’s office, New York City, prior to his employment with PWCA. Correspondence with claimants, officials and others consists of letters received, drafts and copies of letters sent, and other documents required for claim applications. There is occasional reference to PWCA. Correspondence is arranged chronologically by year, and alphabetically within by surname of the soldier upon whom the claim was based.

B. Claim registers and files 1863-1867

Claim registers and files consist of records reflecting two methods of managing the claim prosecution process: a main series of numbered claim applications, and a “petty register” system used to document claims apparently requiring minimal recordkeeping. Records for the numbered claim applications consist of registers, a name index, and related files with supporting documentation. Petty register records consist of the register and a small amount of claim files deemed necessary for paperwork; these are numbered as explained below. All claim files are arranged in numerical order by claim number.

Claim registers 1863-1867

Record of applications for pensions, bounty, arrears of pay, back pay, prize money, and other claims by soldiers, sailors, and the family members of deceased servicemen. Entries are numbered and subsequently referred to as claim numbers. They are listed in chronological order by initial application date. Entries identify claim type; soldier or sailor’s name; name of other claimant, when applicable; residence; notations concerning the place, date, and cause of death, injury, or disease, and hospital where treated as applicable; regimental information; evidence presented; and witness names. Remarks include subsequent notes of actions taken in prosecution of claim and dates of actions. Following entry #699, odd- and even-numbered entries are divided into separate volumes. Volume containing even-numbered entries after 9612 is not found in the collection.

Claim files 1863-1867
Claim files are arranged numerically by claim number assigned by PWCA at the time of initial application. Early in the Association's work, a single claim number was assigned to multiple applications for claims based on the service of one soldier or sailor. Thus two separate files for one soldier may have the same claim number (e.g., one for a pension, the other for back pay). This practice later changed. Multiple claims filed on behalf of the same individual may have an "A" or "B" following the same claim number to distinguish between claim types. Also, an application for one type of claim pertaining to an individual may carry a different number than that individual's application for another type of claim made substantially earlier. File jackets prominently display the name of the soldier or sailor upon whose service a claim was based; those names appear in the container list. The numerical sequence for these files is non-inclusive. Approximately 2,300 files are present; a similar number of PWCA files can be found in the ANCA claim files. Thus, a substantial number of PWCA files are not found in the collection. Files generally consist of a jacket or envelope containing documentation for an individual claim application. Documents may include: claim application forms; communications from government and USSC departments; witness statements notarized by local clerks of court; copies of marriage, birth, and baptismal records; letters from claimants, providers of evidence, agents, and others providing assistance to claimants; and soldiers' letters to family members offered as proof of circumstances. Jackets and envelopes often have notes on them regarding the status of the claim application written by PWCA staff. Some jackets have no enclosures.

Petty register claim files 1863-1867
Claim files are arranged numerically by page number on which application was recorded in the petty register; each number is followed by “PR.” The same number is used for any claim appearing on the same page of the register. File jackets prominently display the name of the soldier or sailor upon whose service a claim was based; those names appear in the container list. The numerical sequence for these files is non-inclusive. Not every claim application entered in the petty register was jacketed. Approximately 75 files are present.

C. Other claim documentation 1862-1867

These are records documenting work on individual claims and office administration, consisting of: letterpress copybooks recording signed affidavits submitted as evidence for claim prosecution; interoffice forms (briefs) recording the status of PWCA claims on registers in New York and at ANCA; receipts and vouchers recording the sending or receipt of official documents and checks and advisements concerning same; monthly office reports on the status of claims processed during that period; and an address book used for correspondence with officers of New York State volunteer and other regiments. Also present are original discharge papers of soldiers and sailors.

  Affidavits 1865 Sep-1867 Apr (letterpress copybooks)

  Briefs 1866 Mar-Nov
  Briefs consist of pre-printed forms resembling office claim jackets, which were used by PWCA and ANCA to request and report information concerning the status of a particular claim on their books. Forms identify the originating office. Briefs were sent by PWCA to their special agent at ANCA (King and later Randlette), ANCA staff then recorded the status of the claim on their books, using their own brief form; Randlette would note on these the date any explanatory letter was written to New York. At some point the two briefs concerning the particular individual were combined. Briefs are arranged chronologically by the month in which the claim individual was examined and reported, and alphabetically within by first letter of soldier surname.

b. 945 f. 1-11 Discharge papers 1862-1866 (1865)

Discharge certificates and other proofs of service that were either undeliverable or lacked claim jackets for filing. There is a small amount of related USSC correspondence. Arranged alphabetically by soldier or sailor surname; variant spellings and claim numbers may appear.

v. 38 Officers directory undated

Lists mainly officers in New York volunteer regiments, providing name, rank, company, and address. Entries are arranged numerically by New York unit number; an alphabetical index refers to pages for other states and surgeons.

Receipts 1863-1867, undated

The bulk are printed forms, bound and loose, signed by claimants acknowledging receipt of payment certificates, discharges, checks, or a combination of same. The Association sent notice by mail informing claimants of the allowance of a claim, which required acknowledgment via attached form before the certificate would be mailed. It also sent forms requesting local claimants to call at the office regarding their claims. When Army discharge papers were required by the government for claim prosecution, the Association issued official receipts to claimants for discharges received. Receipts signed by claimants were also required when discharge papers were returned to them. For numbered series of receipts, order is numerical by receipt number unless otherwise stated. Occasionally, other claim-related papers are attached.

D. Bureau of Employment for Disabled and Discharged Soldiers and Sailors 1864-1866

The Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York (PWCA) established its Bureau of Employment for Disabled and Discharged Soldiers and Sailors in late 1864. Almost from its inception in 1863, the Association had received numerous letters from discharged soldiers asking for assistance in finding work. The Bureau advertised to veterans in local newspapers and also solicited potential employers who might be willing to offer work to returning soldiers, particularly those who sustained some permanent disability.

The Association's Executive Committee, consisting of Howard Potter, Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., and William E. Dodge, Jr., also functioned as the Bureau's Executive Committee. They hired attorney and veteran Colonel Charles C. Nott to be its manager. He was the author of Sketches of the War: A Series of Letters to the North Moore Street School (New York, 1863), among other writings.

Nott maintained a strong connection with Bureau after his appointment to the U.S. Court of Claims in February, 1865. In March 1865, he donated 500 copies, the copyright, and the stereotype plates for the second edition of Sketches of the War to the Bureau to be used to raise money for the benefit of disabled soldiers. The Bureau solicited agents throughout the North to sell copies of the book. Following Nott's departure, Captain William S. Burns and Charles P. Sherman, both attorneys, served the Bureau of Employment respectively as secretary and assistant secretary.

In the spring of 1865, the Bureau coordinated the Soldiers Messenger Corps to provide work for permanently disabled Union veterans, especially "one armed" or "one legged" men, who might be displaced from former occupations. Uniformed messengers were stationed at various buildings in lower Manhattan, and customers were charged set fees for deliveries based on the distance to final location. Records suggest that the Bureau ceased operations in early 1866, a time when the USSC was bringing many of its activities to a close.

Records consist of correspondence relating to the operations of the Bureau and the employment of soldiers, including the sale of copies of Sketches of the War; job application registers; appointment certificates for men employed by the Bureau's Soldiers Messenger Corps; and minutes and other records of the Bureau's Executive Board, including a plan to reorganize the Soldiers Messenger Corps.

Correspondence 1865-1866, undated
Correspondence consists of letters sent and received by Charles C. Nott, William S. Burns, and Charles P. Sherman, and occasionally Executive Board members. Their correspondents include former soldiers, businessmen, government and military officials, USSC staff and others. Letters sent also include copies of Bureau staff reports to the Executive Board.

Soldier Messenger Corps appointment certificates 1865
Numbered files for individual messengers typically consist of certificates identifying the bearer as a bona fide member of the Corps, with the address of the building where he is stationed as a messenger, and rates; documents attesting to the character of the soldier; and bonds affirming repayment of any lost equipment. File numbers were used more than once for different individuals; some files are unnumbered. Most documents also carry the soldier’s Bureau of Employment application number.

Executive Board 1863-1866, undated
Executive Board records consist of meeting minutes with supporting papers, 1863 and 1865, concerning the Association’s claim work and the Bureau of Employment, as well as drafts of a plan to reorganize the Soldiers Messenger Corps. Miscellaneous documents consist of the lease for premises at 35 Chambers Street, 1864 Feb 24, a draft letter to the USSC Standing Committee, 1865 Oct 27, and an undated resolution supporting the Bureau of Employment, signed by prominent New York businessmen.

V. Protective War Claim and Pension Agency 1863-1868 (227 boxes, 3 volumes)

Historical note

The Protective War Claim and Pension Agency (PWCPA) of Philadelphia, earlier known as the Protective War Claim Agency, was established in 1863 by leaders of the USSC in that city to assist local Union veterans of the Civil War and their families in prosecuting claims on the federal government for pensions, back pay, bounty, commutation of rations, prize money, and other benefits. The Agency operated until January 1867, when outstanding business was to be transferred to the Central Office of the USSC’s Army and Navy Claim Agency in Washington, D.C. Its solicitor, however, continued working into 1870 to bring outstanding claims to conclusion, for which he was partially compensated by the USSC.

The Philadelphia Associates (Philadelphia Agency) of the U.S. Sanitary Commission, inspired by the work done by the Special Relief Department in Washington, created an exploratory committee to plan an agency that would prosecute war claims without fee for servicemen and their family members; their plan was approved by the Philadelphia Associates’ Executive Committee in March 1863.

The committee, chaired by attorney William M. Tilghman, established the Protective War Claim Agency’s office at 1307 Chestnut Street, the building in which the Philadelphia Agency had its main office, and hired William N. Ashman (1833-1914) to be its solicitor and secretary. James Hazlehurst joined the agency as assistant solicitor in January 1864; two clerks were hired when the caseload increased. The agency was incorporated under Pennsylvania law on December 5, 1864 as the Protective War Claim and Pension Agency.

Ashman and his associates met with claim applicants in person and corresponded with them by mail. The vast majority of the applications were for federal government benefits; some applications were filed at the state level as well. The agency applied to the U.S. Pension Office on behalf of invalid soldiers as well as the dependent relatives of deceased veterans. It applied to the Paymaster General’s office for bounty and back pay for veterans, to the Treasury Department’s Second Auditor for bounty and back pay for various family members of the deceased, and less commonly, to the Treasury Department’s Third Auditor for reimbursement for personally supplied equipment lost during battle, notably horses. On behalf of sailors, it applied to the Treasury Department’s Fourth Auditor for prize money and benefits. As the war continued, the agency also filed claims with the Commissary General of Prisoners for commutation of rations on behalf of former prisoners of war. In cases where claimants in need sought advances on claim payments or other assistance, the Agency worked closely with the Women’s Pennsylvania Branch to determine actual needs and recommend other sources of relief assistance before it extended any loans.

While PWCPA was established as an agency of the USSC Philadelphia Associates, it also developed a relationship with the USSC’s Washington-based Army and Navy Claim Agency (ANCA). ANCA’s leadership considered PWCPA as one of its local agencies and required it to submit monthly reports on claim activity and monthly expense reports. Most local USSC claim offices sent claim applications to ANCA, which prosecuted claims with the applicable government departments on their behalf. A few local offices in major cities, such as Philadelphia, however, remained independent in its dealings, and Ashman and his associates maintained a separate correspondence with the government departments. Ashman did correspond with ANCA’s General Agent William F. Bascom, and to a lesser extent his predecessor there Darius Forbes, and with the Special Relief Department’s Chief Assistant J.B. Abbott. The offices collaborated in cases involving Pennsylvania soldiers who initially filed their claim applications in Washington. In addition, some Philadelphia cases seemed to require assistance from USSC personnel who were geographically, and perhaps personally, closer to federal government officials, such as Pension Commissioner Joseph Barrett and Second Auditor Ezra B. French.
In November 1865, ANCA announced that its claim agencies would cease accepting new applications on December 31, 1865, and local agents, including William Ashman, distributed notices to this effect to current and potential claimants. Work on processing claim applications already submitted, however, continued in Washington, as well as in claim agencies in Philadelphia and a few other major cities well into 1866. In April 1866, PWCAP’s governing committee voted to extend the time period for settling the agency’s business until the end of the year. In January 1867, the governing committee voted to close the office and send all unsettled claims William F. Bascom and his business partner, Charles W. Seaton, both formerly of ANCA, who had agreed to settle all outstanding USSC claims under the same terms and conditions as previously offered by its agencies.

However, Ashman continued to prosecute unsettled claim applications well into 1870, and perhaps into 1871, and the USSC supported this continued work by paying part of the rent for his personal offices. After the war, Ashman would go on to hold several public offices in Philadelphia, concluding his career as a judge in the Orphans’ Court, a position he held for more than 20 years prior to his sudden death in 1914.

Scope and content note

Records of the Protective War Claim and Pension Agency (PWCAP) consist of correspondence; the Agency’s minutes; and claim documentation. Materials provide insight into the workings of a local claim agency, and the condition and needs of soldiers, sailors, and their families living in the Philadelphia area.

Correspondence consists of letters received and letters sent regarding claim prosecution and to a lesser extent office administrative matters, as well as various correspondence registers.

Letters received comprise two series of letters predominantly from claimants, arranged successively in alphabetical order (circa 1863 Nov-1864 Oct) and then numerical order (1864 Oct-1867 Apr), including registers of the numbered items. Also present are letters from federal and state government departments, and letters from the United States Sanitary Commission’s Special Relief Department and the Army and Navy Claim Agency concerning claimants and administrative matters. Letters received also contain miscellaneous documents, including correspondence; sample forms and printed matter.

Letters in the alphabetical and numerical series are written mostly by soldiers and other claimants, but letters and other documents from military officers, physicians, hospital officials, government officials, clergy, USSC personnel, and others are also found. Writers are generally asking for information about a claim application, acknowledging receipt of payment or returned papers, or providing evidence or other information regarding an application. Letters also include signed and returned receipt forms for discharge certificates or payment certificates for claims allowed, and letters written by office staff to military and government officials and sometimes claimants, returned by the respondent with notations. The majority of items in the alphabetical series are letters from claimants, which often include accounts of their financial, family, and/or military circumstances.

Letters in alphabetical arrangement are filed by claimant surname. In cases where multiple claimants are discussed (in government and USSC correspondence), letters are filed by the surname of the first claimant listed. As in the alphabetical and numerical series, letters received from government departments and USSC staff also include letters or forms sent by the Agency, which were returned with notations concerning the claimant or matter discussed. General correspondence is arranged chronologically by date written.

Letters sent comprise thirteen letterpress copybooks kept by William N. Ashman, clerks writing on his behalf, and James W. Hazlehurst. Their correspondents include soldiers and other claimants, military officers, government officials, USSC personnel and others. Also present are correspondence registers of letters sent.

Explanations of the types of claim handled by particular government departments and the nature of their correspondence are found in the Army and Navy Claim Agency correspondence series. Any exceptions to standard form or content in Agency correspondence, as well as any necessary arrangement statements, are noted in the container list.

Claim documentation consists of the first volume only of a series of eleven volumes of claim application registers; a record of medical examinations of applicants for invalid pensions; and receipt books for certificates or payments of claims allowed.
The Agency maintained claim registers as a formal record of claim transactions but, unlike ANCA or the Protective War Claim Association of the State of New York, it did not maintain separate claim files, preferring instead to record its correspondence in registers, noting claim actions taken on envelopes in which the correspondence was enclosed. According to a USSC volume listing all USSC claims unsettled as of April 1, 1867 (Unsettled claims, 1867, New York, N.Y. Archives record group, series IV.A Office, box 79, volume 5), the Agency’s claim applications numbered over 11,000. Those numbers are sometimes found on the top of envelopes and on documents concerning claim settlements.

Letters received 1863-1867, undated

Alphabetical series circa 1863 Nov-1864 Oct 13
Letters are arranged alphabetically by claimant surname.

Numerical series 1864 Oct-1867 Apr
Numbered correspondence arranged chronologically by date received. Envelopes and items within were numbered (1 to 20,859) and information about their contents recorded in registers (1 to 20,299). A name index to the registers covers items (1 to 16,719).

Miscellaneous documents 1864-1867 (1865-1866)
Letters, forms and other documents concerning specific individual claims from various writers, including soldiers, other claimants, family members and acquaintances of living and deceased soldiers, non-USSC claim agents and attorneys, military officers, physicians, and hospital officials. Types of documents range widely and include claim petitions, soldiers' letters to their families, letters to and from soldiers and other claimants by the Philadelphia office and others, receipts for returned discharge papers and payment certificates, soldiers' descriptive lists, documents providing evidence of marriage, and sworn witness statements given to county clerks. Although the contents of this group of records sometimes overlap with those of other series, they reached the USSC's Historical Bureau as a miscellaneous group of their own. Items are arranged alphabetically by surname.

Letters sent 1864-1867 (letterpress copybooks)
Outgoing correspondence consists of three series of volumes containing copies of letters sent by office staff to soldiers and other claimants, military officers, government officials, USSC personnel and others regarding claim applications. The first series, as originally called, contains copies of letters personally written and signed by solicitor William N. Ashman. These are followed by copies of letters written by various clerks, including John G. Parker (J.G.P.) and George E. Alkins (G.E.A.), signing Ashman's name with their initials below; and those by assistant solicitor James W. Hazlehurst, also signing Ashman's name with his initial "H" below. Many letters include a claim number assigned by the agency. All of Ashman's volumes and the first two volumes written by clerks contain indexes.
