Summary

Creator: Deland, Margaret, 1857-1945

Title: Margaret Deland correspondence

Date: 1900-1920

Size: .1 linear feet (1 folder)

Abstract: Margaret Wade Deland (1857-1945) was an American author whose works are generally considered to be part of the literary realism movement of the late 19th century. The letters are almost exclusively outgoing, mainly from Deland to Mrs. E. H. Anderson, and to writer and publisher Henry Edward Rood. Letters to Mrs. Anderson are largely social in nature, but also discuss plans for speaking engagements. Letters to Rood relate to the publication of her works. Several incoming letters from various parties, including Rood, are also present
