

The New York Public Library
Manuscripts and Archives Division

Guide to the
Civil War letters
1862
MssCol 4843

Summary

Creator: Boardman, H. Lansdale

Title: Civil War letters

Date: 1862

Size: 56 items

Source: Purchase, Charles Apfelbaum Rare Manuscripts and Archives, 06/06/2002

Abstract: H. Lansdale Boardman served as a private in Company G, 22nd Regiment New York Volunteers, during the Civil War. The collection consists of letters written by Private Boardman to his mother while he was serving in the commissary department of Company G, 22nd Regiment New York Volunteers at Fort Monore, Virginia, and at "Fort Aspinwall" (named after the regiment's commander, Lt.-Col. Lloyd Aspinwall) near Harper's Ferry, and Bolivar, Virginia. The letters describe the routine of camp life, guard duty, picket duty, military parades and drills, the devastated condition of the town of Harpers Ferry, deserted by its inhabitants, the military diet, the feeding of the troops in the commissary tent, supplies of fresh foods received from local vendors, visitors at camp, and the arrival of 87th Ohio Volunteers, the 111th N.Y. Volunteers, and the 15th Indiana Battery. Mention is also made of the arrival of one of [Matthew] "Brady's men" who took pictures of the regiment for sale at "inferentially high" prices. Included is a carte-de-visite photograph of Boardman in military tunic, and a contemporary press clipping captioned "Western Virginia / The Twenty-Second New York Regiment at Bolivar".

Access: Advance notice required.

Preferred citation: Civil War letters, Manuscripts and Archives Division, The New York Public Library

Language of the Material: Some of the letters are written in French

Creator History

H. Lansdale Boardman served as a private in Company G, 22nd Regiment New York Volunteers, during the Civil War.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of letters written by Private Boardman to his mother while he was serving in the commissary department of Company G, 22nd Regiment New York Volunteers at Fort Monore, Virginia, and at "Fort Aspinwall" (named after the regiment's commander, Lt.-Col. Lloyd Aspinwall) near Harper's Ferry, and Bolivar, Virginia. The letters describe the routine of camp life, guard duty, picket duty, military parades and drills, the devastated condition of the town of Harpers Ferry, deserted by its inhabitants, the military diet, the feeding of the troops in the commissary tent, supplies of fresh foods received from local vendors, visitors at camp, and the arrival of 87th Ohio Volunteers, the 111th N.Y. Volunteers, and the 15th Indiana Battery. Mention is also made of the arrival of one of [Matthew] "Brady's men" who took pictures of the regiment for sale at "inferentially high" prices. Included is a carte-de-visite photograph of Boardman in military tunic, and a contemporary press clipping captioned "Western Virginia / The Twenty-Second New York Regiment at Bolivar".

Key Terms

Geographic Names

Fort Monroe (Va.) -- History -- Civil War, 1861-1865

Harpers Ferry (W. Va.) -- History -- Civil War, 1861-1865

United States -- History -- Civil War, 1861-1865 -- Personal narratives

Genre/Physical Characteristic

Photographs

Names

Boardman, H. Lansdale

Brady, Mathew B., 1823 (ca.)-1896

United States. Army. New York Volunteers, 22nd Infantry Regiment