Abstract: Henry C. Bunton's papers consist of personal papers, writings, chaplaincy records, Christian Methodist Episcopal Church records, and correspondence. These papers principally document Bunton's role as a bishop with the C.M.E. Church. Church records consist of copies of sermons, office files, correspondence, denominational records, pamphlets and related material from his years in the ministry. Denominational records include correspondence with other bishops from the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church such as J. Claude Allen, Norris S. Curry, Chester Kirkendoll, Elisha P. Murchison, P. Randolph Shy, and P. Julian Smith regarding plans for meetings, annual conferences, expansion of the church and other church activities. There is also correspondence with individual pastors, and officers from the many member churches in Bunton's district regarding requests for assignments and transfers, securing property and other church business, as well as financial reports. Among the churches represented are Israel Metropolitan Church in Greenville, South Carolina; Mount Olive Cathedral in Memphis, Tennessee; and Russell Memorial Church in Durham, North Carolina.

Creator History

Henry C. Bunton was born in 1903 near Coker in Tuscaloosa County, Alabama to sharecropping parents. He was the sixth child of eleven children born to Isaac Washington and Sarah Lue Noland, both descendants of slaves. As was common among southern African-American tenant farmers, he experienced a life of dire impoverishment. His elementary education, typically in a single room of the local Colored, now Christian Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal Church (C.M.E.), was frequently interrupted by the exigencies of farming and the seasonal requirements of labor. He managed, however to complete five grades.

At the age of nineteen he married a Baptist woman, Estelle McKinney. Shortly thereafter he joined the C.M.E. Church and at age twenty he felt his calling to the ministry. He was licensed to preach at a Fourth Quarterly Conference and recommended to the Annual Conference from the same Quarterly Conference for admittance on trial. With much foresight, the Presiding Elder of Tuscaloosa County, the Reverend R. A. Kirk encouraged him to advance his education if he hoped to contribute to the ministry. At age twenty-two, he enrolled in the sixth grade in the Elementary School at Miles College in Birmingham, Alabama. By then, in addition to being a husband and student, he was also the father of two children, the financial obligations of which forced him to work in various menial jobs. At the age of twenty-nine, he graduated from high school and pursued two years of courses at Miles College. Family responsibilities and health reasons compelled him to discontinue.

For ten years Bunton served as pastor in various rural churches throughout Alabama. Included among them was Miles Chapel at Miles College. From Alabama, Bunton went to pastor in several urban churches in the East Florida Conference. In 1938 while ministering in St. James church in Tallahassee, he assumed his college instruction at Florida A&M College and earned his A.B. in 1941. From Saint James he was sent to Carter Tabernacle Church in Orlando for two years. While in Florida, he was also Dean of the Leadership Training School, Sunday School lesson writer, and Director of Leadership Education and Youth Work.

Bunton was again transferred to Arkansas, where he pastored at Bullock Temple Church in Little Rock. While residing there he was commissioned to the chaplaincy in the United States Army in 1943 and was assigned to Camp Van Dorn, Mississippi. From there, he went, in November 1943 to England and Wales and in June 1944 he crossed the English Channel to Normandy, France with U.S. Army units. He remained in Europe until November 1945. From 1948 to 1950 he again served as Chaplain for which he was rewarded the rank of Major and awarded the certificate for meritorious service and three battle stars. His connection with the military did not cease with the end of the war, but rather he became an official of the General Commission on Chaplains and the Armed Forces and was chosen sometime during the 1970s by the C.M.E. College of Bishops as the denomination's endorsing agent.

Upon his return to the United States Bunton resided in Dallas, Texas where he was assigned to pastor at Sparks Chapel Church. While there he also served as the Young Men's Christian Association's Boys Work Secretary part time for two years. After two years of study, he graduated from the Perkins School of Theology of Southern Methodist University. During the summer of 1950 he attended Garrett Biblical Seminary at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois.

From Dallas, Texas, Bunton went to Denver, Colorado where he pursued his theological studies at the Iliff School of Theology and earned a Master of Theology degree. He also pastored in Denver at Cleaves Memorial C.M.E. Church. From 1953 to 1954, he served with the Board of Christian Education as Director of Leadership Training, Adult Work and Writer for the Sunday School Literature.

In 1953 Bunton moved to Memphis, Tennessee to perform pastoral duties at Mount Olive Cathedral, one of the largest and most prestigious churches of the C.M.E. Church in Memphis. During his residence in Memphis from 1953 to 1962, he became active in civic work and civil rights activities. When the Southern Christian Leadership Conference was formed, Bunton served on both the Board of Directors and the Executive Board until 1962 and continued a working relationship with the organization during his bishopric. He was also a charter member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Among the other positions he served in during his tenure in Memphis were president of the Ministers and Citizens League and president of the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance of Memphis and Shelby County. He also ran for a position on the Board of Education. In 1955, Texas College, a C.M.E. Church affiliated college, named him honorary Doctor of Divinity.

From July 1957 to January 1958, Bunton traveled to Egypt, Lebanon, Greece, Palestine, Syria, Jordan, and Italy and visited sites of Biblical significance. Bunton's wife of 33 years passed away in 1958. Later that year, he married Alfreda Gibbs Carpenter, a widow and businesswoman.

In May of 1962 at the C.M.E. General Conference, Bunton was elected the thirty-third Presiding Bishop of the C.M.E. Church and as Bishop of the Seventh Episcopal District with headquarters in Washington, D.C. He remained Bishop until 1978 and was assigned throughout that period to the Seventh Episcopal District. Unlike some of his predecessors, Bunton did not campaign for this position. He felt that this was not a secular office, that a campaign of a political nature was inappropriate, and that the person to fill the position should be chosen by the people.

During his bishopric Bunton accomplished several things. Aside from helping numerous persons attend college and founding twenty-four congregations, he was permitted by the College of Bishops to supervise the Annual Conferences of Ghana and Nigeria. The C.M.E. Church's activities in these two countries had traditionally been termed, "the African work" which was attached to the Episcopal District to which the presiding bishop was assigned. As Bishop of the Seventh Episcopal District, Bunton also oversaw these two conferences from 1966. In addition, Bunton continued the ongoing dialogue between the C.M.E., the African Methodist Episcopal, and the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Churches toward the goal of union between the three Methodist groups. Moreover, during the years 1976 to 1978, the C.M.E. Church worked closely with the Union American Methodist Episcopal, African Union Methodist Protestant, Reformed Zion Union Apostolic, and British Methodist Episcopal Churches. Before the 1978 General Conference, Bunton, with the help of several ministers, organized the C.M.E. Church in Haiti.

Other C.M.E. Church-related positions which Bunton held include trusteeships of Paine College in August, Georgia and of Miles College in Birmingham, Alabama, president of the Publishing Board, and chairman of the College of Bishops. In addition Bunton served on the Board of Directors of Joint Action for Community Service, Inc. and on the Advisory Board of the American Bible Society, 1962-1970. He was a member of the National Council of Churches of the U.S.A. and the Council of Churches of Greater Washington. Bunton also taught several times in the 1970s at Howard University. In 1972 he was awarded an honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters from Miles College and a Doctorate of Divinity from Mississippi Industrial College, both of which are C.M.E. Church affiliates.

Bunton's involvement with the C.M.E. Church did not cease with his retirement in 1978. The same year, the C.M.E. Church legislated that in the case of the death of a bishop of a District, a retired Bishop may be recalled to serve. Due to the death of Bishop Joseph A. Johnson in 1979, Bunton was recalled to complete his term at the Fourth Episcopal District until 1982. Bunton is at present fully retired from the Church. His second wife passed away in 1990. He is currently living in Memphis, Tennessee and writing a book on the concept of the Methodist episcopacy.

Christian Methodist Episcopal Church

The Christian Methodist Episcopal Church was established in 1870 as a result of the exodus of the former slave congregations from the Southern branch of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1954, the year of Brown versus Board of Education Supreme Court decision, the General Conference resolved to officially change the name of the church from Colored to Christian Methodist Episcopal Church.

During Henry C. Bunton's bishopric there were nine Episcopal Districts. Each District is headed by a bishop who presides over the Districts Annual Conferences. The bishops together comprise the College of Bishops. This body acts as the chief executive of the Church. The chairman of the College of Bishops is elected annually.

Within each Conference are smaller districts which are headed by presiding elders. Every four years the Annual Conferences elect delegates to the C.M.E. Church General Conference, a quadrennial meeting. These delegates elect the bishops of the Episcopal Districts and the bishop of the whole Church. The churches and the Annual Conferences also hold conferences.

Also within the C.M.E. Church structure are bodies, divisions, boards, departments, committees, and commissions devoted to various areas of interest to the church. Many of these bodies extend in hierarchical fashion to the Conference and district levels.

CHRISTIAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The CHRISTIAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 1871-1989 series is the largest single series of the collection. The subseries within it are Bishopric, Churches, Affiliated Bodies and Activities, and Colleges.

Bishopric

The Bishopric, 1871-1986, subseries is arranged to reflect the structure of the Church. Hence the first ten divisions of the subseries contain material regarding the First through Tenth Episcopal Districts. The last District was formed after Bunton's term as Bishop of the C.M.E. Church. Each District subdivision consists of folders pertaining to the bishops of the District, the District's Annual Conferences and the districts of those Conferences. The folders regarding bishops contain their correspondence with Bunton in their capacity as bishops as well as holders of other positions in the C.M.E. Church. These folders contain few letters from Bunton. The letters reflect the concerns, requests, and administration of these clergymen. In some cases the correspondence of a bishop may be found within more than one subdivision because he may have presided over more than one Episcopal District during his career and over an Annual Conference in another District. In addition to correspondence, the bishops' folders contain clippings, printed matter, certificates, programs and souvenir journals. The files pertaining to the Annual Conferences and their districts contain correspondence, clippings, minutes, financial statements, programs, and printed matter. This subseries contains the oldest document in the entire collection: the minutes of the Colored Georgia Conference, January 1871.

The Seventh Episcopal District subdivision is the largest in this subseries. This is also the District to which Bunton was assigned from 1962 to 1978 during his bishopric. This subdivision contains correspondence, clippings, deeds, depositions, indentures, and statements of closing, documents of incorporation, minutes and agendas, financial statements, journals, programs, souvenir journals, marriage licenses, and certificates. The certificates folder contains certificates of appointment to C.M.E. Church offices in the Seventh Episcopal District and transfer certificates to individuals transferring from Conferences in other Episcopal Districts to ones within Bunton's District. This subdivision also contains two bound handwritten journals of the Washington District, 1902-1938.

Churches

The subseries, Churches, 1878-1986, is arranged alphabetically according to states for those in the U.S. and country for those in Africa. This arrangement was chosen because it was not always clear in which district or conference the churches belonged. Moreover, while in most cases the district or conference could be determined, in some instances, churches, such as those in the North Carolina Annual Conference were related at different times to the Carolina Annual Conference, or the North Carolina and South Carolina Annual Conference.

The states which together account for most of the documentation are the Eastern seaboard states of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, and North and South Carolina, as well as the District of Columbia. The first six states and the District of Columbia belong to the New York-Washington Annual Conference and the Carolinas or portions thereof belonged to the Carolina Conference, North and South Carolina Conferences, or the North and South Carolina Conference, at different times. All of these fall under the umbrella of the Seventh Episcopal District, the headquarters of the C.M.E. Church during Bunton's bishopric.

This subseries consists of correspondence from pastors and letters from individuals who discuss the churches and the organizations within them, appeals and complaints from church members, programs, church bulletins, clippings, financial statements, minutes and agendas, baptismal records, biographical sketches, correspondence regarding sales and purchases of property and transfer of property ownership, deeds, reports, and souvenir journals. With the exception of the Florida and Tennessee folders, none of the folders devoted to states in which Bunton pastored contain material that sheds light on the churches where Bunton pastored prior to assuming the bishopric. The Tennessee folder contains a brief historical sketch of Mount Olive C.M.E. Church and a souvenir journal on the occasion of the centennial of the church and the Florida folder contains one of Bunton's first church bulletins at Carter Tabernacle Colored Methodist Episcopal Church.

Affiliated Bodies and Activities

The subseries, Affiliated Bodies and Activities, 1937-1989, is arranged alphabetically. The represented bodies are boards, commissions, committees, departments, divisions, and publications. The folders contain correspondence, minutes, agendas, printed matter, and souvenir journals. Those containing material concerning the College of Bishops, Publishing Board, and the General Board of Christian Education are especially large. Bunton was the president of the College of Bishops and the Publishing Board and involved with the General Board of Christian Education.

Also of interest in this subseries are two folders devoted to publications of the C.M.E. Church, C.M.E. Chronicle and Christian Index, official organ of the C.M.E. Church and "The Second Oldest Negro periodical." They contain correspondence, a 1967 souvenir journal celebrating the one-hundredth anniversary of the Index and a copy of the 1977 issue which featured Bunton in a guest editorial, an interview with him, a biographical article on Alfreda Gibbs Bunton, and seven pages of photographs of twenty-four congregations which were founded under Bunton's bishopric. There is also a list of questions for the interview with Bunton in the folder as well as clippings from the Index. Also of note are the folders pertaining to the Missionary Council, the Woman's Missionary Council and the Division of Research and History. The two Missionary Councils are the same body but appear under different names. These two bodies reflect strong female activity. The folder pertaining to the Division of Research and History contains an outline of and a report on a research project on the history of the C.M.E. Church. Bishop Bertram W. Doyle was authorized in 1970 to undertake this project, however, he died in 1980. Also of note are the folders pertaining to Bunton's efforts in uniting the C.M.E. Church with other Methodist churches and the folder containing material about his work in establishing the C.M.E. Church in Haiti.

GENERAL

The GENERAL series contains correspondence and printed matter arranged alphabetically by subject. The Letters of Appeal folder contains letters from individuals requesting scholarships and financial aid for education. If the person is a minister requesting such assistance, his/her correspondence will be found in the Ministers folder. The Letters of Appeal folder also contains requests for monetary assistance for churches and relief from disasters. Moreover, it contains correspondence from individuals asking that Bunton pray for them. The Ministers file contains correspondence between Bunton and individual ministers as well as letters about the them. The two largest subjects subdivisions in this series are Civic Organizations and Religious Organizations. These are arranged alphabetically. In the Southern Christian Leadership Conference folder is a letter from the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. in 1957 to Bunton pertaining to the Reverend's schedule of arrival in Memphis to give a speech. The Transfers--Correspondence folder contains letters from, to, and about people who requested transfers between a C.M.E. church and a non-C.M.E. church and from one C.M.E. Church Conference to another.
