Creator History

Soho Repertory Theatre, commonly known as Soho Rep, is an Off-Broadway theater company in New York City. It was founded in 1975 by Marlene Swartz and Jerry Engelbach in the SoHo neighborhood of Manhattan. In the mid-1980s, Soho Rep had to leave its original home, and moved a few times before settling in Manhattan's Tribeca neighborhood in 1991.

Soho Rep's original mission was to produce adaptations of classics and rarely staged plays. Its first season, 1975-1976, opened with such productions as Maxwell Anderson's Key Largo and Henrik Ibsen's The Master Builder. Other productions from its formative seasons include Frank Marcus's The Killing of Sister George (1977-1978, Season 3); John Osborne's Inadmissible Evidence (1978-1979, Season 4); and William Shakespeare's Twelfth Night (1979-1980, Season 5).

Scope and Content Note

The Soho Repertory Theatre prompt books date from 1975 to 1989, and document the development process for theatrical productions from their first fourteen seasons. The prompt books contain a list of the cast and crew, annotated scripts, rehearsal schedules, and some tech notes. The collection does not hold a prompt book for every production from these formative seasons, and there are no materials from Season 11 (1985-1986) and Season 12 (1986-1987). All the included scripts are the stage director's copies. There is also sheet music from the Blitzstein Project (1988-1989, Season 14).

Arrangement: The collection is arranged by season in the order of production. The order numbers are retained under notes in the container list; and any unnumbered prompt books were placed at the end of each season in alphabetical order. It was not clear to what season a few scripts belonged, so those are listed separately at the end of the collection.
