Biographical Note

Léon-Gontran Damas, writer, educator and statesman, was born in Cayenne, French Guiana, in 1912. His career as a writer and journalist began in Paris during the 1930s. Together with the Martinique born writer and statesman Aimé Césaire and the Senegalese author and statesman Léopold Sédar Senghor, he co-founded the Negritude literary movement. Damas' first volume of poetry, "Pigments," was published in 1937. He served briefly in the French army during the Second World War, and joined the French Resistance after his demobilization. Elected representative of Guiana to the French Parliament after the war, he was appointed to the High Court of Justice and served as the reporter for a parliamentary commission to the Ivory Coast in 1949. During the 1950s and 1960s, he studied the influence of African culture on the New World while lecturing and touring in the Caribbean and Latin America. In 1970, Damas was appointed Distinguished Visiting Professor at Howard University, Washington, D.C., where he served until his death in 1978.

Scope and content

The Léon Gontran Damas Recorded Sound Collection consists primarily of noncommercial recordings of radio broadcasts made during his travels to Africa, France, the United States and other countries, interviews, poetry readings and lectures by Damas and other artists, as well as drum music and traditional music from French Guinea and Sub-Saharan Africa. The collection also includes one commercial long playing vinyl audio record, "Poesie de la Negritude" featuring readings by Damas of his poetry. In addition to works by Damas, the collection features Guy Tirolien, Bernard Dadie, Jacques Rabemananjara, Aimé Césaire, Léopold Sédar Senghor, Bob Stokes, Eugene Miller, Jayne Cortez and others.
