Biographical Note
Robert Benney, illustrator and painter, was born in Romania in 1904. He came to New York as a toddler. He studied art at New York's Cooper Union from 1921 to 1925. While in art school at the age of 19, he opened his own studio. Once the studio opened, New York newspapers and magazines began commissioning Benney for his illustration work.

He drew portraits of leading actors and actresses for New York City theater productions. These drawings were printed along side an article about the production in newspapers such as the Herald Tribune, The New York Times, Brooklyn Daily Eagle, The New York World and Telegraph, and other Greater New York newspapers of that era. Beginning in the late 1930s, the large Hollywood movie studios, such as Twentieth-Century Fox and United Artists, began commissioning Benney for his illustration talents.

Benney captured theater productions and stage personalities in his drawings in a number of ways. He set appointments with actors or actresses to sketch them during a sitting in their dressing room. He also attended rehearsals and used photographs to sketch his subjects.
While earning a living as a commercial artist, Benney continued going to school. After graduating from Cooper Union, he attended the National Academy of Design from 1928 to 1932. He also studied under Frank A. Nankivell. Later he educated future artists at the Pratt Institute between 1949 and 1952 and Dutchess County College between 1964 and 1973.

Benney is most celebrated for his time as a war artist correspondent in the Pacific during World War II. In 1943, Abbott Laboratories, a pharmaceutical company based out of Illinois, hired Benney to paint the Naval Aviation Department's contributions to the war. In 1944, Abbott brought Benney back to paint the Army Medical Department's work in the South Pacific. While in WWII, Benney produced four series of paintings; Combat Medicine, Naval Aviation, Oil in Warfare, and Amphibious Operations. His depictions were published in 1944, in Our Flying Navy, and in 1945, in Men Without Guns. As a life member of the Society of Illustrators, he volunteered his services in 1954 to the US Air Force to draw their operations in North Africa. He spent two months with the US Marine Corp as a war artist correspondent documenting their work in Danang, Vietnam in 1968.

Besides the military and the theater industry, Benney worked as a commercial artist for large corporations such as American Sugar Refining Company, American Tobacco Company, General Foods, Shell Oil, Standard Oil Company and Western Electric. He also worked as a freelance illustrator for advertising agencies. When asked one time how an artist should approach a commercial project, Benney said, "The question, 'Is it fine art or commercial art?' is of little interest to the director of a large corporation which exists only for selling company products. The primary factors are: "Does the picture tell the story, does it do it with taste and dignity becoming to the product or industry; and, in the case if institutional advertising, will its art or aesthetic content carry over in the public's subconscious mine the good that is so much coveted?'"

By the 1950s, Benney operated studios on West 57th Street in New York City, and in Wallkill, New York. Benney belonged to professional organizations such as the Art Students League, Artists and Writers Association and the Society of Illustrators. Robert Benney died in Boston in June of 2001.
Scope and Content Note

The Robert Benney Collection includes photographs, clippings, posters, playbills, and ephemera relating to his career as an illustrator of the stars of stage and screen.

The bulk of the material spans 1926 to 1947. The photographs and clippings are mostly portraits of actors and actresses in the costumes they wore for New York City theater productions. However, the collection does include photos and clippings depicting entire production scenes, musicians, radio personalities, comedians and dancers. The collection also has a small amount of photos and clippings representing the films of that time period. Additionally, the collection includes items from the 1978 exhibition of Benney’s theatrical sketches at the Library and Museum of the Performing Arts, the New York Public Library at Lincoln Center.

Research Files include the photographs that Benney used to help him sketch theater productions, and stage actors and actresses. The files contain roughly 1500 black and white photographs. Most of the photographs are 8”x 10”, but some are over-sized. The files keep to Benney's original organization. They are arranged alphabetically by production title. Within the alphabetically structure, some files were created specifically for choreographers, directors, magicians, musicians, playwrights and producers. These files exist under their corresponding letter. Under most letters, Benney had created miscellaneous folders containing various photographs of actors and actresses with last names corresponding with that letter section. This organizational structure was kept for the collection. Notable stars seen in the research files include Al Jolson, Alfred Lunt, Barbara Stanwyck, Bela Lugosi, Brian Ahern, Dorothy Gish, Eartha Kit, Eddie Cantor, Ethel Barrymore, Eugene O'Neill, Eva Le Gallienne, Gloria Swanson, Helen Hayes, Jimmy Durante, John Barrymore, Laurence Olivier, Leslie Howard, Lynn Fontanne, Margalo Gilmore, Paul Robeson, Sergei Rachmaninoff. Notable productions represented in the research files include: Arsenic and Old Lace, Mary of Scotland, Tobacco Road, Grand Hotel, Vaudeville, Dracula. There is also information regarding radio stations WNBC, WEAF, WJZ.

2 card files
Alphabetical
This consists of two card catalog file boxes; one labeled A-L and the other labeled M-Z. There are about 1500 3” x 5” index cards in the card catalog. The card catalog was created and maintained by Benney and his assistants. It is arranged alphabetically. The first part of each letter each has a card for each production organized by title. After the production titles in each letter section, blue index cards exist for actors and actresses with last names starting with the corresponding letter. Most cards include a cross-index system. The production title cards lists the names of performers, and the blue performer index cards list the productions they appeared in. If Benney drew a sketch of the performer for the Herald Tribune, he noted the date next to the performer's name in the production title index cards and performer index cards.

b. 8-9
Theater photo library card index
2 boxes
Two card catalog file boxes organized alphabetically by production title.

Sub-series 4 - Theater photo library of Broadway productions, 1926-1942
1 box
This file includes two yellow binders, which have a similar organizational structure as the "Theatre Photo Library Card Index." Each binder was labeled "Theatre Photo Library of 'Broadway' Productions 1926-1942." One was labeled as "A" and the other was labeled as "B". Binder A had been nicely typed up with a formal organizational description on the inside cover. Binder B was a rough draft of Binder A. Each binder is divided with tabs with the labels: Plays, Actors, Playwrights, Musicians and Photographers. This group also consists of extra index cards, which preceded the "Theatre Photo Library Card Index." Additionally, two pages of handwritten notes exist which explained the organization of a legal-sized file folder, which contained oversized photographs.

b. 10
Theater photo library of Broadway productions 1926-1942
1 box
