Introduction

Robert Troup was a Revolutionary officer and a lawyer thereafter, residing in New York State or City until his death in 1832. From 1801 until his death he was the land agent for the Pulteney Estate in England . He was a logical choice for them because of his own interest in the lands of western New York State and because of his reputation as a lawyer.

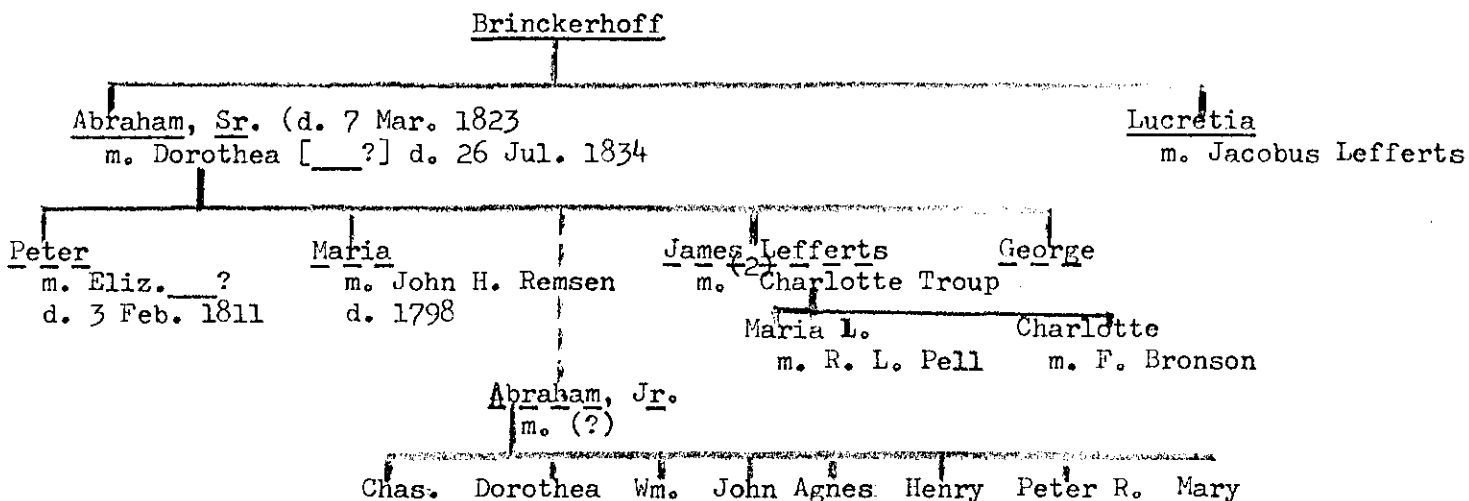

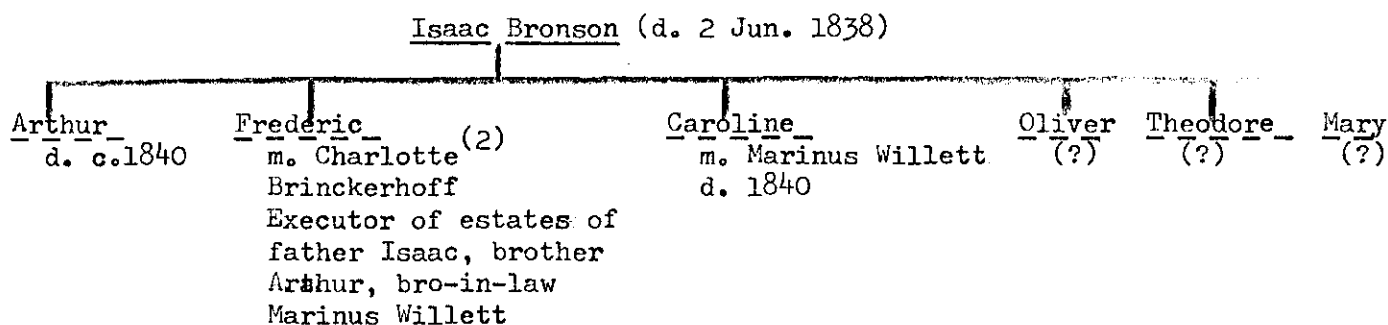

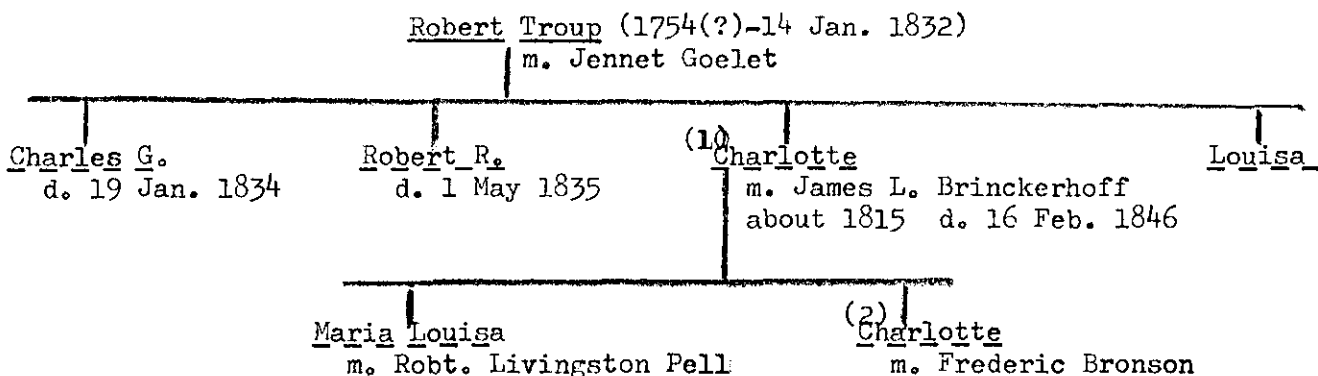

These papers fall into three groups. The first seven boxes contain miscellaneous papers and correspondence of Troup himself, and papers in various estates his family were connected with. His daughter, Charlotte married James Lefferts Brinckerhoff and thier daughter Charlotte married Frederic Bronson. This resulted in papers connected with the estates of Robert Troup, several members of the Brinckerhoff family, and some of the Bronson family, all finding their way into this collection.

The second group of five boxes follow these because of the Bronsons. They had speculated widely in what were called the western lands in the first half of the 19th century, and in New York City real estate until well after the Civil War. Charlotte Bronson's husband Frederic became involved in his father Isaac's and brother Arthur's estates, as well as his own land deals. These boxes cover that.

The third group of five boxes contain Troup's side of the correspondence of his agency for the Pulteney Estate.
