Creator History

Felia Doubrovskaya (Felizata Dlouzhnevskaya, Dluzhnevskaya), 1896-1981, was born in Russia and was trained at the Imperial Ballet School in St. Petersburg, graduating in 1913. She then joined the Maryinsky Ballet. In 1920 she left for Europe and danced with Diaghilev's Ballets Russes, where George Balanchine created roles for her including Polyhymnia in Apollo (1928) and the Siren in Prodigal Son (1929).

Doubrovskaya married an acclaimed Russian dancer, Pierre Vladimiroff (Petr Nikolaev), in 1921, and they moved to the United States in 1934 when Vladimiroff was invited by Balanchine to teach at the School of American Ballet. Doubrovskaya was guest ballerina with de Basil's Ballets Russes in 1937 and the Metropolitan Opera Ballet in 1938-1939, but then retired from her performing career. In 1949 she joined the staff of the School of American Ballet, teaching the advanced girls' classes, and she remained on its staff until a year before her death.

Scope and Content Note

The papers of Felia Doubrovskaya cover the period from c.1919 to the year of her death, 1981, and pertain to both her family and personal life and her professional career. The bulk of the collection consists of correspondence: approximately 43 letters and notes from Doubrovska, and 266 letters, cards, notes, telegrams to Doubrovska, with a small part of the correspondence to her mother (Valentina Dlouzhnevskaya) and to Vladimiroff. Of interest are 42 letters or notes from Mathilde Kshessinskaya and her husband the Grand Duke André, and 12 letters from Iurii (Yuri) Bakhrushin.

The correspondence is divided into two groups: from Doubrovska, her husband and family; and from others, arranged alphabetically by correspondent and then chronologically under each name. (The spelling for the Russian names in the Folder List is that established at the Dance Collection.)

The collection also contains 36 of Doubrovska's small diaries and address books and 1 belonging to her mother; notes for an autobiography of Vladimiroff (a small notebook written by Vladimiroff and some pages dictated to Doubrovska.); 7 contracts; and papers of Doubrovska's mother (Valentina Dlouzhnevskaya) including letters, diaries, stories, plays and poems.

Included with this Register are 14 pages of background material, notes and some brief translations of items in this collection done by Irina Klyagin.

Arrangement: I. Correspondence; II. Papers of Valentina Dlouzhnevskaya; III. Notes for Vladimiroff autobiography; IV. Contracts for Doubrovska and Vladimiroff; V. Diaries, engagement calendars, and address books
