

The New York Public Library Manuscripts and Archives Division

Guide to the

William Hamilton Harris papers

1856-1865

MssCol 1332

Summary

Creator: Harris, William Hamilton, 1944-

Title: William Hamilton Harris papers

Date: 1856-1865

Size: 1 box

Abstract: William Hamilton Harris (d. 1895) was a colonel in the Ordnance Department of the US Army during the Civil War. He was the son of Ira Harris, Republican Senator from New York. The collection comprises letters mostly written at West Point Military Academy, addressed to his father, Ira Harris, relating facts about studies, social life, religious guidance, etc., of the cadets. A few related experiences in the Ordnance Department of the US Army during the Civil War in which he rose to the rank of brevet lieutenant colonel. Occasional letters from his father and others. Also his diary, June 13-July 30, 1864 in which he describes the explosion of a land mine constructed by the Federal troops at Petersburg, July 30.

Preferred citation: William Hamilton Harris papers, Manuscripts and Archives Division, The New York Public Library

Creator History

William Hamilton Harris (d. 1895) was a colonel in the Ordnance Department of the US Army during the Civil War. He was the son of Ira Harris, Republican Senator from New York.

Scope and Content Note

The collection comprises letters mostly written at West Point Military Academy, addressed to his father, Ira Harris, relating facts about studies, social life, religious guidance, etc., of the cadets. A few related experiences in the Ordnance Department of the US Army during the Civil War in which he rose to the rank of brevet lieutenant colonel. Occasional letters from his father and others. Also his diary, June 13-July 30, 1864 in which he describes the explosion of a land mine constructed by the Federal troops at Petersburg, July 30.

Key Terms

Genre/Physical Characteristic

Diaries

Soldiers

Geographic Names

United States -- History -- Civil War, 1861-1865 -- Personal narratives

Names

Harris, William Hamilton, 1944-

Harris, Ira, 1802-1875

United States Military Academy