

The New York Public Library
Billy Rose Theatre Division

Guide to the

Letters to Jack Winchester

1899

*T-Mss 2002-015

Summary

Creator: Winchester, Jack

Title: Letters to Jack Winchester

Date: 1899

Size: (1 portfolio, 2 letters)

Source: Gift, Marquette University, 05/20/2002

Abstract: Consists of two letters to Jack Winchester, both written in 1899. The first, dated Jan. 12, is a note of general information from Mr. Winchester's friend Violet Fanshawe, who writes from Utica, New York. The second, dated Feb. 2, is from actress Marie Badeau, who writes from Providence, R.I., thanking Mr. Winchester for contacting a journalist named Felton, of the New London [Ct.] Day, on her behalf. Also enclosed is a clipping in which an anonymous critic, presumably Mr. Felton, praises Miss Badeau's performance in a stage farce entitled KIDNEY STEW, which had recently played the New London Academy of Music.

Preferred citation: Letters to Jack Winchester, Billy Rose Theatre Division, The New York Public Library

Scope and Content Note

Consists of two letters to Jack Winchester, both written in 1899. The first, dated Jan. 12, is a note of general information from Mr. Winchester's friend Violet Fanshawe, who writes from Utica, New York. The second, dated Feb. 2, is from actress Marie Badeau, who writes from Providence, R.I., thanking Mr. Winchester for contacting a journalist named Felton, of the New London [Ct.] Day, on her behalf. Also enclosed is a clipping in which an anonymous critic, presumably Mr. Felton, praises Miss Badeau's performance in a stage farce entitled KIDNEY STEW, which had recently played the New London Academy of Music.

Key Terms

Genre/Physical Characteristic

Clippings

Correspondence

Names

Winchester, Jack

Badeau, Marie

Fanshawe, Violet