Biography

Abe Burrows, playwright, lyricist, director, screenwriter, comedian and play doctor was born Abram S. Burrows on December 18, 1910 in New York City to Louis and Julia Burrows. His father was in the paint and wallpaper business. He graduated from New Utrecht High School in Brooklyn and attended City College and New York University first in a pre-med program and then studying accounting. In 1931 he was hired by a brokerage firm on Wall Street where he worked for three years. He then worked in his father's paint business and as a traveling salesman for a maple syrup firm. During summers he was a popular entertainer in the Catskills and found he enjoyed making a living with his humor.

Burrows began selling radio sketches in 1938 and for four years was a writer for Ed Gardner's Duffy's Tavern, 1941-1945. He also wrote pieces for CBS Texaco Theater, The Joan Davis Show, and The Ford Program. In Hollywood he became a hit at exclusive parties with his satirical songs and recitations with titles such as The Girl with the Three Blue Eyes and I'm Walking down Memory Lane without a Single Thing to Remember. During the course of his career, he appeared on many radio and TV programs, recorded two albums of songs and published An Abe Burrows Songbook. In 1948 and 1949 he toured the country performing in nightclubs and also had his own radio shows: The Abe Burrows Show and Breakfast with Burrows.

Burrows' biggest hits, however, were in the world of musical theater. At CBS in Hollywood he had worked for Ernest Martin who later joined with Cy Feuer to produce Guys and Dolls. It was Martin who brought Burrows to work on the Broadway show. The Guys and Dolls that opened in November 1950 with book and lyrics by Burrows and music by Frank Loesser, was an award-winning production and major hit that ran for years and was revived in London, on Broadway and on school stages around the country. Burrows' other major hit, again with Frank Loesser, was How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying which won the Pulitzer Prize for drama in 1962.

From 1950 on Burrows' work was primarily for the Broadway stage as writer, director or both. In 1951 he doctored the musical Make a Wish, an adaption of Ferenc Molnar's The Good Fairy, and directed the revue, Two on the Aisle. In 1952 he was writer and director for Three Wishes for Jamie that he adapted with Charles O'Neal, in 1953 he wrote and directed Can-Can, and in 1954 he directed Reclining Figure. He adapted the screenplay of Ninotchka for the Cole Porter musical Silk Stockings and wrote the screenplay for Solid Gold Cadillac in 1955 and collaborated with Harry Kurnitz on Once More with Feeling in 1957 and with Richard and Marion Bissell on Say, Darling which he also directed in 1958. He was also writer and director for First Impressions, an adaptation of Pride and Prejudice and director of Golden Fleecing in 1959, for Cactus Flower, 1965, for Holly Golightly, 1966, a musical theater remake of the film Breakfast at Tiffany's which closed before its Broadway opening, and for Four on a Garden, 1971. His other directing credits include Happy Hunting, Golden Fleecing, What Makes Sammy Run?, Forty Carats, and No Hard Feelings. He was a director for Good News, 1974 and co-writer and director for Hellzapoppin', 1976, but left both shows before their openings. He also did some directing work on the show Forty-Second Street in 1981.

Burrows married his first wife Ruth in 1936. The couple had two children: James born in 1940 and Laurie in 1944, and were divorced in 1948. He married Carin Smith on October 2, 1950. Abe Burrows died on May 17, 1985 after a long illness.

Scope and Content Note

This collection of personal papers, correspondence, production files, radio scripts, autobiographical writings, interviews, speeches, articles, songs, business files, clippings, photographs and other visual materials provides a wealth of documentation on Abe Burrows' personal and professional life. The early radio scripts of the comedian, the detailed files on each stage production especially Can-Can, How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, and Cactus Flower, the large collection of opening night telegrams, and the extensive correspondence with family, friends and colleagues illuminate Burrows' personality and career. Includes long, informative and personal letters to his wife Carin when they were apart, working files for his Abe Burrows Songbook, 1955, articles, both published and unpublished, on show business and non-show business topics, sketches, notes and ideas for possible radio or television shows, movies or plays, various drafts of his autobiography, Honest Abe, 1980, caricatures and portrait photographs of Burrows as well as many shots of him with well known colleagues.

Series Descriptions/Container List

Series I: Personal Correspondence and Other Papers, 1904-1985

4 boxes

This series consists of personal correspondence between Abe Burrows and his wife Carin, correspondence with other family members, various materials documenting Abe Burrow's personal life such as holiday cards and gift lists, and condolences.

Sub-series 1 - Correspondence between Abe and Carin Burrows, 1946-1978 and n.d.

16 folders

Chronological.

The sub-series is mainly long, handwritten letters from Abe to Carin when they were apart. The bulk is from 1948-1949 when he was on the road playing nightclubs and the summer of 1955 when he was in Hollywood writing a screenplay for Columbia Pictures Corporation. Also includes letters from Carin to Abe from the summer of 1955, poetry he wrote to her and notes and cards they exchanged. This is a rich file as the letters are long, informative and personal, shedding life on both Burrows' career and his marriage, and the handwriting is refreshingly clear.

Series II: General Correspondence, 1939-1982

15 boxes

Letters are arranged alphabetically by correspondent and telegrams are arranged chronologically by production.

Correspondence and telegrams document the life and career of Abe Burrows. While most family letters are in Series I, Burrows' personal and professional life were deeply intertwined; his colleagues were his friends. Thus there is not a clear divide between personal and professional letters, and many insights on Burrows the man can be found here.

Sub-series 1 - Letters, 1939-1982

12 boxes

This sub-series of both personal and professional correspondence is arranged alphabetically with incoming letters and carbons of Burrows' replies kept together. Folders are for individual correspondent for prominent and/or prolific writers, followed by miscellaneous groupings for each letter of the alphabet. The letters range from substantive correspondence with colleagues such as Harry Kurnitz, Frank Loesser and Cole Porter, to extensive correspondence on arrangements and complaints with car rental agencies and department stores. Burrows was an inveterate letter writer and his many correspondents included Fred Allen, Steve Allen, Woody Allen, Mac Benoff, Richard Bissell, Bernard Braden, Art Buchwald, Eddie Cantor, Noel Coward, Fleur Cowles, Bing Crosby, Robert Emmet Dolan, Cy Feuer, Pierre Galante, Ed Gardner, Oscar Hammerstein, Julie Harris, Moss Hart, Lester Hyman, Belinda Jelliffe, Nunnally Johnson, E. J. Kahn, Lawrence Kasha, Madeleine Kasket, George S. Kaufman, Elia and Molly Kazan, Jean Kerr, Sidney Kingsley, Sam Levene, Art Lewis, Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, Joshua Logan, Philip Malicoat, Groucho Marx, Ken McCormick, Shepherd Mead, Jo Mielziner, Edwin O'Connor, Richard Rodgers, Billy Rose, Sam Rosenberg, Harry Ruby, Phil Silvers, John Steinbeck, Jule Styne, Rudy Vallee, Herman Wouk, Maurice Zolotow and Albert Zuckerman among others. This sub-series also includes correspondence with professional organizations such as the Dramatists Guild. In 1951 Burrows was subpoenaed by the House Committee on Un-American Activities and attempted to cooperate by testifying. He was not charged or blacklisted though in 1954 he still experienced some problems with potential sponsors because of the fact that he had been subpoenaed. His testimony, later statements, correspondence with his lawyers and letters he received from the public are filed here under "HUAC".

Series III: Production Files, 1912-1992

54 boxes

Chronological.

The productions series documents the productions with which Burrows was involved, followed by productions he worked on that were never produced, then scripts sent to him for consideration, and lastly show business work not specific to a certain production such as contracts and correspondence for radio and television appearances and with recording companies, correspondence with agents, material on copyright, and papers on the producing/investing organization he ran with his wife: Beresford Productions.

Sub-series 1 - By Title, 1950-1981

45 boxes

Arranged chronologically by production.

This sub-series consists of productions for which Abe Burrows was a writer, director, or both or in one case (Make a Wish), play doctor and in another case (First Gentleman), an investor. Within each production the arrangement is: scripts, partial scripts, drafts and revisions, designs, notes, sheet music, contact sheets, contracts, correspondence, financial papers, programs, clippings and photographs.

Series XII: Photographs and Other Visual Materials, 1914-1993

3 boxes

Formal portraits of Burrows are followed by photographs of him at work arranged chronologically and then photos with others, mostly undated, arranged alphabetically by the name of the other, followed by family snapshots and photos with unknowns. At the end of the series is artwork, primarily drawings of Burrows by others.

Photographs of Burrows are mainly formal portraits or photos of Burrows with colleagues on sets for television talk shows, at parties and formal dinners, etc. Includes photos of Burrows with Lauren Bacall, Milton Berle, Carol Channing, Marlene Dietrich, Moss Hart, President Lyndon Johnson, Steve Lawrence, Frank Loesser, Ethel Merman, Marilyn Monroe, Dinah Shore, Gloria Swanson, Gore Vidal, Mike Wallace and many others. There is also a folder of the photographs used in his autobiography, Honest Abe which includes childhood and family portraits as well as duplicates of photos of Abe with some of the very well known people with whom he worked. The series also includes a few sketches and caricatures of Burrows. All visual materials in this series are small enough to fit in standard-sized Hollinger boxes.
